71% of investments at GIM was cornered by power firms to tap hydrogen export potential

Ukraine war: K'taka energy sector booms

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Ukraine-Russia war has had a positive impact on the Invest Karnataka 2022 Global Investors' Meet (GIM) which concluded on Friday. A whopping 71 per cent of the total investments has come for the energy sector with renewable energy slated for 38 per cent and 33 per cent for manufacturing green hydrogen and its derivatives at the three-day event.

This massive share of investments for the energy sector is attributed to the Ukraine-Russia war-induced energy crisis that the world is facing, and the business honchos are looking at opportunities in export of green hydrogen.

Large and Medium Industries Minister Murugesh Nirani on Saturday informed the media that a total of Rs 9.82 lakh crore of investments have been committed in various sectors that will create over six lakh jobs. As many as 667 projects have been approved for the investments including 96 in renewable energy and nine in hydrogen manufacturing with an investment of Rs 3.28 lakh crore and Rs 2.86 lakh crore, respectively.

"The war in Ukraine and the energy crisis resulted in many Western and East Asian countries turning to hydrogen as a source of energy," said Industries & Commerce Commissioner Gunjan Krishna, adding that since its an intensive mechanism that requires a lot of renewable energies the projects have come up by looking at the potential in export of hydrogen.

Nirani attributed this enthusiasm in investing in the energy sector to the massive cost reduction in setting up and running renewable energy generation plants from Rs 18 crore per megawatt to just Rs 3.5 crore per megawatt.

However, he rubbished allegations that the government had a plan to close down the thermal power generation plants in Karnataka. P6

Now, ED questions Sisodia's secretary

AMIT MUKHERJEE @ New Delhi

ENFORCEMENT Directorate (ED) sleuths on Saturday visited multiple locations, including the premises of Delhi deputy chief minister Manish Sisodia's personal assistant Devendra Sharma, in connection with the money laundering angle in the Delhi excise policy case. ED officials visited at least five locations in the Delhi NCR as part of the ongoing investigation, sources added.

Sisodia took to twitter to claim: "They registered a false FIR, got my house raided, searched bank lockers, checked in my village but found nothing against me. Today, they did not find anything at my PA's house, so now they have arrested him and taken him away." In another tweet, he alleged the ED action is because of the upcoming state elections.

However, ED sources told this paper that no arrests were made though occupants of the premises searched were questioned.

The ED has so far conducted more than 130 raids in across India including Delhi, Haryana, Punjab, Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka and Tamil Nadu. It arrested Sameer Mahandru, managing director of liquor manufacturing company Indospirit, in September.

The money laundering case being investigated by ED is the fallout of a CBI FIR on the Delhi excise policy case in which Sisodia has been named as accused number one. The CBI is probing the irregularities in the Delhi excise policy, which Sisodia had approved. The irregularities allegedly caused huge losses to the state exchequer while benefiting private parties including liquor traders and middlemen.

The CBI is also conducting a parallel investigation into the matter under Prevention of Corruption Act. In the latter case, Sisodia was questioned last month for over nine hours.

Issued orders for 95% of schemes announced in budget, says Bommai

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WITH state Assembly polls round the corner, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai is on a mission to burnish his government's report card and lead BJP back to power.

Unperturbed by the opposition parties' continued tirade against his government, the CM seems to be focused on implementing the budget proposals. "We have already issued orders for almost 95 per cent of the schemes announced in the budget. We are also implementing most of the schemes which are essential immediately, and we are launching some schemes this month and next month. I want my budget proposals to be implemented and reach the people," the CM said.

The good response to the Global Investors Meet (GIM), with Rs 9.82 lakh crore investments, seems to have bolstered the state government's confidence as the CM says the global gloom is not going to affect the state, instead it is ushering in opportunity.

Bommai said the investments will give employment generation the greatest impetus. "Investments which can create employment are our priority," he said. The CM is also keen on expediting the implementation of the projects and not letting the MoUs linger on for long. "We have got a definite timeline, a definite plan for this. I will personally supervise the whole thing," he said.

On the political front, Bommai said the assembly polls will be the real test of his leadership.

Mistry death: Dr Anahita booked for rash driving

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

MAHARASHTRA Police on Saturday booked Dr Anahita Darius Pandole for rash driving over the September 4 car crash that killed former Tata Sons chairman Cyrus Mistry.

Dr Anahita was driving the Mercedes Benz GLC when it rammed the boundary wall of a bridge over Surya river on the Ahmedabad-Mumbai highway, killing Mistry and Jahangir Pandole, her brother-in-law.

A case has been registered under Indian Penal Code sections 304(A) (causing death by rash and negligent act), 279 (rash driving on a public road), 337 (causing death by act endangering life and personal safety of others) at Kasa police station, Maharashtra police said. The FIR was registered on the basis of a report by Mercedes Benz, which blamed rash driving for the accident, as well as statements by her husband Darius Pandole, discharged from hospital this week.

As per his statement, a car ahead of their vehicle moved to the second lane from the third and Anahita tried to follow the car. But then she found that there was a truck on her right on the second lane, due to which she was not able to merge into that lane. Dr Anahita is still in the ICU.

Renukacharya accuses cops of shoddy probe

G SUBHASH CHANDRA @ Davanagere

CHIEF Minister Basvaraj Bommai's Political Secretary and Honnali MLA M P Renukacharya has slammed the police department for its alleged shoddy probe into the mysterious death of his nephew Chandrashekhar.

Questioning ADGP Alok Kumar about the direction of the probe, Renucharya said the investigation should have started from his home and should have been conducted in a proper way. "The police did not approach me, my family, my brother and his family. How can they catch the culprits who killed my nephew?"

He alleged that the police department failed to probe the incident ever since it was reported to them on October 31. "My supporters and Chandrashekhar's fans formed different teams, searched for him in the nook and corner of Honnali and Nyamathi taluks. On Thursday, one team identified the parts of the SUV near the Upper Tunga Canal near H Kadadakatte village between Nyamathi and Honnali after which we deployed our own drones and located the drowned SUV. It was only after this that the police came to the spot and the fire and emergency services personnel lifted the car from the canal using a crane", he said.

Renukacharya said he will also be conducting programmes in the memory of Chandrashekhar, whom he considered as his son.

EC'S BRAND AMBASSADOR

India's first voter passes away at 106, three days after casting his last vote

HARPREET BAJWA @ Mandi

INIDA's first voter, 106-year-old Shyam Saran Negi, passed away on Saturday at his native place in Kinnaur, Himachal Pradesh. He never missed an election in his lifetime and was the Election Commission's brand ambasador. Just three days before his demise, on November 2, he had exercised his franchise for the 34th time for the Himachal Assembly polls through postal ballot.

Negi was the first voter in the first general elections held on October 25, 1951. He cast his vote at Negi in Chini village (now known as Kalpa).

He always preferred to visit the polling booth physically but he opted for postal ballot for his last voting due to ill-health. "The youth should come forward to participate in the democratic process as it is not only our right but also our duty to participate in the elections by exercising our franchise," he had said after casting his postal ballot for the first time.

His death was condoled by leaders across the spectrum, including Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge.

Modi said Negi's outlook towards democracy will always inspire the country's youth.

"He inspired millions to vote, even before his demise, he voted for Himachal Pradesh Assembly Elections 2022 through postal ballot on November 2, 2022," the Election Commission said on Twitter.

Chief Election Commissioner Rajiv Kumar also expressed his deep condolences on the demise of Negi. In a rare gesture and mark of gratitude for Negi's democratic values, ethos and contribution, Kumar reached Kalpa, native village of Negi in Kinnaur district to meet the bereaved family in person and paid floral tributes, said a statement issued by the Election Commission of India.

Earlier, Negi had refused to take the 12-D facility offered by the Election Commission for voters aged 80 years and above to vote from home saying he was capable enough to visit the polling booth.

The single phase election for the Himachal Pradesh Assembly will take place on November 12 and the votes will be counted on December 8.

Kannada chariot

Mallikharjun's small moped is called a Kannada chariot, after he spent Rs 12,000 to modify it. It is adorned with four big Kannada flags and some messages on the front. All sides of the bike are decorated with yellow and red flowers

House colours

Mallikharjun's house is unmistakable -- it is painted red and yellow both outside and inside, and is easily identifiable as a 'Kannadiga' house. It has 53 small and big flags flying on all sides, and on the terrace. The house is located at the entrance of the village

Small library at home

Mallikharjun got many books from Tontadarya Siddalinga seerand also purchased Kannada books and Basava philosophy books, which are part of his small library in his house in Kalasapur. He gives books to poor students for free to read, and they have to return them after reading so that others can borrow the books

This senior citizen from a Gadag village is on a mission to promote Kannada, and also dresses the part

RAJYOTSAVA ALL YEAR ROUND

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @Gadag

AT the age of 69, Mallikharjun Khandemmanavar of Kalasapur, a small village near Gadag town, is a colourful personality -- quite literally so, in his pied outfit of yellow kurta, red pants and overcoat. His house is painted in similar hues of Kannada pride, with more than 50 flags fluttering atop it. As does his moped.

Mallikharjun celebrates Rajyotsava every day. He has been spreading awareness on Kannada in Gadag district for the past 45 years. Dressed in his trademark bright outfit, he hops on to his moped, which is done up to look like a chariot in similar colours of red, black and yellow. He visits villages and cities and teaches people to read, write and speak Kannada, and gives away storybooks, textbooks, Kannada newspapers and magazines to the poor for free. He reaches out to schools and colleges to promote Kannada, and is famous in Gadag and surrounding areas as a 'Kannada paricharak'.

His journey as a Kannada flag-bearer started in 1982. Mallikharjun went to Mysuru and took part in a protest to implement the V K Gokak report. He walked with other activists, with a stone on his head, as part of the protest. Police arrested more than 150 activists on that day.

Veteran actor Rajkumar arrived in Mysuru and released all the activists. "Dr Rajkumar gave a speech on Kannada and inspired us, from that day, I decided to work to make the Kannada language popular," said Mallikharjun.

Though he started his mission in 1982, he started wearing red and yellow outfits only from 1995. He visits schools and colleges on national and regional festivals, and distributes vachanas, story books and literary write-ups to students.

Mallikharjun joined government service as a 'D' Group worker and resigned in 2008 after senior officials asked him to stop spreading awareness on Kannada. He opted for VRS and says he is now living happily with his family. His sons, Basavaraj and Chandrashekhar, run a KMF Nandini milk centre in Gadag town, while Mallikharjun keeps his mission alive.

The initial days were tough for Mallikharjun, as he used to get a low salary. He remembers late Tontadarya Siddalinga seer, who had sent jowar, wheat and rice bags to his house during his days of struggle. The seer knew about Mallikharjun and his financial condition, and helped him.

Mallikharjun's wife Anasuya is a big support. "My husband has been doing social work and promoting Kannada language for the past 40 years. He is fondly called 'Kannada manushya' in the district. I am very happy about it. Some people have habits and hobbies, and my husband has social service, and many people love him for it. I have always been with him, and my sons and daughters-in-law support him too. I used to tell him to take some rest for a few days, but he is always busy, and organises functions every week at our house."

"I have been a lover of Kannada since my childhood, but didn't know how to express it. I used to participate in speech competitions and other cultural activities during childhood. When I participated in the Gokak movement in 1982, I became famous in some parts of North Karnataka and used the platform to spread awareness about Kannada. My family is also supportive. Now I am 69 and I want to be a Kannada activist till 100."

Student of Siddalinga seer

Mallikharjun has been a sincere follower and student of Tontadarya Siddalinga seer for 40 years. The seer is known to have helped many talented writers publish books in Kannada.

Small library at home

Mallikharjun got many books from the seer and also purchased Kannada books and Basava philosophy books, which are part of his small library in his house in Kalasapur. He gives books to poor students for free to read, and they have to return them after reading so that others can borrow the books.

Communal harmony award

Mallikharjun has been instrumental in creating awareness on harmony among youths and society in Gadag district. He received the Communal Harmony award by Tontadarya mutt, Akshardeep Sahitya Vedike, Seva Ratna, Dalit Sangharsh Samiti, Gadag district administration and other taluk level organizations.

Mangaluru-based couple Deepika and Santosh Shet provide a solution to watering gardens when people are away from home

Water an idea!

VINCENT D'SOUZA @Mangaluru

Santosh and Deepika Shet with the water tank designed for balconies and the smart device (below) installed at Bejai Church garden in Mangaluru

K Chandrahasa, a retired bank employee, and his wife Shobha will travel to the US early next year to spend time with their son. They were concerned about their garden at home in Mangaluru's Bejai locality as there would be no one to water the plants. But a young couple in the neighbourhood came up with a solution to their garden woes.

Deepika and Santosh Shet, who are in their 30s, quit their IT jobs to set up a startup that provides quick solutions to the problem of watering gardens when people are away from home. When in the US, Chandrahasa can be sure that his plants in his garden and balcony not only get water on time, but he will also get notifications on his mobile phone on watering the plants. The watering automation tool, developed by the Shet couple, runs on an IOT (Internet of Things) platform and can be controlled through a website or a mobile app from any corner of the world.

The invention is the result of hard work and persistence of Deepika and Santosh, who worked on the tool for almost a year. The couple, who have loved plants since their childhood, realised that working couples in cities were reluctant to keep plants in balconies as they get no time to water them amid busy work schedules and while travelling. At the same time, work stress had started taking a toll on Santosh's health and he was losing sleep. "The IT job gave me everything. I worked and travelled across the world as a software developer at mid-management level during my IT career that spanned over 15 years. But the last two years before I quit the job, I realised that I should not be here," said Santosh.

The Covid pandemic and its fallout too had a role in his decision. For one year during the pandemic, he was alone in Ireland and missed Deepika and daughter Adviti who was just a year old then. This added to his stress and finally he decided to call it quits. Deepika, who had taken a break from her IT job to take care of their child, did not think twice before seconding her husband's biggest decision of their life.

"I too was in love with plants. So I could not say no," says Deepika who hails from Udupi. But life was not as easy as expected for the next several months as they sat down to invent the tool. It took a lot of time in coming up with the prototype of the water automation device and fine tune it before coming up with the final product.

"The device needs to be left in the open exposed to rain and Sun. It was a challenge to make sure that water and air does not seep in. There were a lot of issues related to the circuit design. Finally, we did it," say the couple with pride.

"Our mission is to make watering easy and at the same time reduce water wastage. Our model consists of a device connected to the Internet which in layman's terms is an Internet-connected tap. This device has been fine tuned to conserve energy. It operates on alkaline batteries that last for six months or more. The user is also provided with an app for his phone that notifies the user when the battery runs out or when the overhead tank is empty. In the backend, our website is used to store watering history. The main differentiating factor is the visibility of watering for the user. He/she can also remotely switch on or off the device. We are also developing algorithms that can do this based on the weather patterns," says Santosh.

The device can serve the watering needs for large gardens or small balconies. The solution can be custom made to fit all needs. Every house with plants has its own quirks. The start-up customises the water delivery to suit their needs. For instance, most houses do not have a water source in the balcony. For such houses, they have designed a water tank-based system. The water tank can be (optionally) placed in a grand plywood enclosure to make it aesthetic. Most homes have RO purification units and AC compressors that can keep the tank topped up all the time.

The couple is also currently researching much larger models that can water agricultural fields with emerging technologies like LORA (Long Range). "Being able to keep plants alive with no manual intervention is nothing short of a magical experience for us. We enjoy doing what we do, and hope to leave the world a better place for Adviti," says Deepika.

So far, the watering automation devices have been installed at five places in Mangaluru. There are enquiries from even the US but Santosh says they are not pursuing it due to issues related to customs. For details visit http://www.ukshati.com or dial +918861567365.

'Masjid Darshan' held to clear misconceptions

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

WITH an aim to clear misunderstandings and misconceptions about Islam and the Muslim community, the Juma Masjid Trust Board Management Committee in association with Jamaat-e-Islami Hind organised a 'Masjid Darshan' programme for people from different faiths. The event was held at Masjid E Khadria on Millers Road.

Bhaskar Prasad, a participant, said people who accuse Muslims of anti-national activities in masjids should be invited to such programmes so that their misunderstanding is cleared. He also said the confusions faced by Muslims should be addressed and the responsibility of building a harmonious society is on everyone," said Prasad.

A large number of non-Muslims, including writers, activists and women took part in the 'Masjid Darshan' programme.

The participants witnessed 'azan' (call for namaz), ablution (process of cleaning hands, feet and face) before prayer, namaz, library, among other rituals and facilities at the masjid.

Archbishop Peter Machado of Bengaluru, who spoke at the event, welcomed the move. He said it is good to see that anyone can go to any mosque to get an idea of the customs and ideas of Islam.

BIKER BATTLES FOR LIFE AFTER POTHOLE MISHAP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

HARDLY three days after a biker died in a pothole-related accident, another rider is battling for life after falling from his moped while negotiating a pothole. The rider, Sandeep (37), sustained severe head injuries and is now in a coma.

According to his wife Seema, Sandeep was returning home around 9.45 pm on November 1, when he lost control over his bike while crossing a pothole near Gangamma Road in Jalahalli. He was rushed to a private hospital in Hebbal.

"My brother-in-law had an operation on his head on the first day and the surgery cost was Rs 5 lakh. The family and friends have so far mobilised Rs 3 lakh and people are sending us some money," said Jeevan, a relative.

The family claimed that on Saturday morning, two BBMP officials came to the hospital and left soon after. "Now fearing getting caught, the officials have filled the pothole. We want an answer from BBMP officials," he said.

Meanwhile, BBMP engineers from Yelahanka, RR Nagar and Dasarahalli are shifting the responsibility, stating that the accident spot does not belong to their limits.

BBMP Assistant Engineer Nagaraj has filled the pothole after the incident. "I checked the spot; we have already filled it," he said.

Dr Raghuram, Neuro and Spine Surgeon, who is treating Sandeep, said, "The patient underwent a surgery for a large clot in the right side of the brain. He should improve over a period of two to three weeks."

CM SEEKS DETAILS OF POTHOLE WORKS

Bengaluru: After a meeting with Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Friday evening, Urban Development Department Additional Chief Secretary Rakesh Singh instructed officials from different civic agencies to speed up infrastructure projects. Talking to the New Indian Express, Singh said, "Pothole-filling or roads work was not the only topic discussed. All development works were discussed. I went on inspection to check the progress. There is good improvement, but we want to up the scale." The CM is said to have asked details of pothole filling work zone wise and had instructed Singh to step up the work. The officer said he has been told that a maximum seven to eight days without rain will be enough to complete the work. The ACS also said earlier there was a lack of focus but now things are clear and can be easily sorted out. "For example, the issue of footpaths, cables, and drainage are visible and it can be fixed at the earliest," he said.

All should join hands with govt for conservation: Forester

As there is a lot of pressure on forests due to linear projects, the forest department alone cannot safeguard them and everybody should join hands for conservation and protection, Additional Principal Chief Conservator of Forests Kumar Pushkar said. During the distribution of the Cricketers for Wildlife Conservation's Wildlife Service Award 2022, organised by Karnataka Forest Department, he said NGOs, conservationists and celebrities should engage with the government in conservation and protection. Forest watcher from BRT Tiger Reserve, Fairoz, along with wildlife conservationists -- Sunitha Dhairyam (Mariamma Trust, Bandipur Tiger Reserve), Akhilesh Chipli (Shivammoga) and Colonel C M Muthanna (Kodagu) -- were felicitated by former Indian cricketer and National Cricket Academy director VVS Laxman in the city on Saturday. The awardees are chosen by a team of panelists from the forest department, including conservationists, based on their works. Laxman expressed concern on climate change and asserted the need to protect forest to mitigate the effects. There are challenges, which need to be overcome for better results, he added using the platform to encourage youth in sports, but also stressed on the need for quality education. ENS

Addicted to cricket betting, a part-time lecturer has landed behind bars for robbing a home-alone senior citizen as his salary was not enough for his gambling activities. Sanjaynagar police have recovered gold ornaments worth Rs 2.5 lakh from him. The accused barged into the house of the woman on October 31 wearing a helmet and robbed her at knife-point. POLICE SPEND 12 HRS ON FALSE KIDNAP ALERT

Male friend helps model from Delhi get into cab, but onlooker thinks it as abduction bid

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

IT was a frantic search for almost 12 hours on Friday for the East division police, who were desperately trying to locate a Delhi-based model, who had allegedly been kidnapped. Around 4.15 am on Friday, they got a call from an alert private company employee, Shekar, saying that he saw a girl being put in a car and driven away on Subbaiahnapalya Road in Banaswadi.

After 12 hours of a thorough technical, scientific and other investigation, the police were relieved to find out that the model was unharmed and was also never kidnapped. She was only helped into the car by her male friend as she was feeling dizzy because of her low sugar levels.

At the spot where the alleged kidnapping took place, the police found an abandoned two-wheeler and took it to the police station. The vehicle was registered at the Shivamogga RTO and the Shivamogga police managed to get the owner's mobile phone number.

When the city police called the number repeatedly, there was no response and they went to the GPS location of the phone. There, they saw a woman, owner of the phone, searching for something. She claimed that her two-wheeler, which was there, had been stolen.

The police told her that they took it to the police station and she went with them. When the police asked her if she had any idea of a woman being lifted and put inside a car by a man, she said it was her friend Amrutha, a model from Delhi.

Amrutha had booked a cab to go to her residence. As she was walking to the cab, she felt dizzy because of low blood sugar levels.

Her male friend, who saw that, rushed to her help, lifted and put her in the cab and also went with her, leaving the two-wheeler at the spot. The police then spoke to Amrutha, who told them that she was not kidnapped but was only helped by her friend. It was 4.05 pm by then and nearly 12 hours had elapsed.

"The person who approached the police in the early hours should be appreciated. He explained exactly what he saw. It looked like a genuine case of kidnapping. Finally after getting to know the reason, we were relieved," said, DCP (East).

Exclude love affairs from Pocso ambit: Judge

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

POINTING out two tendencies being witnessed frequently by courts while dealing with the custody of a child in matrimonial cases and Pocso cases arising out of love affairs, Justice B Veerappa, the judge of the Karnataka High Court, said on Saturday that is high time to pass a proper legislation to implead the father and mother as accused in criminal cases related to child abuse and to exclude love affair cases involving minors from the purview of Pocso Act.

He was speaking at the state-level Multi Stakeholders Consultation on Implementation of Pocso Act, 2012, organised by the Juvenile Justice Committee, Karnataka High Court, in coordination with the Karnataka Judicial Academy, Karnataka State Commission for Protection of Child Rights, Enfold Proactive Heath Trust and UNICEF.

"There is a need for legislative changes where love affair cases are considered different from the cases of sexual child abuse under the Pocso Act," said Justice Veerappa, who is also chairman of the Karnataka State Legal Services Authority.

He said that judges, dealing with cases involving child custody in matrimonial disputes, are frequently witnessing that the children are being harassed by their educated parents who are burying the interest of their children due to their egos.

It is high time for UNICEF and the state to have proper legislation to implead such parents as the accused in criminal cases so that most child abuse cases will be stopped.

"I hope and trust that a meaningful deliberation will take place on the issue", he said.

19,145 cases reported in state

N Manjula, secretary of the Department of Women and Child Development, said there was a 16.2 per cent increase in crimes against children in 2020-21 during the Covid pandemic.

In all, 36 per cent of crimes against children are under Pocso Act, as per the data of the National Crime Records Bureau.

Since the Pocso Act was enacted in 2012, Karnataka has recorded 19,145 cases under the Act as of August 2022, she said.

10-member gang honey traps HC staffer, arrested

Bengaluru: The Kamakshipalya police busted a 10-member gang, including two women, for trying to honey trap a High Court employee. The gang had made two videos of the victim in the nude, thrashed him and tried to extort Rs 2 lakh from him. The arrested -- Anuradha, Kavya, Siddaraju, and seven others -- are all residents of Magadi Road. The prime accused, Anuradha, befriended the victim during a hearing of a court case and she had sought money from him to buy home appliances. She returned the money six months ago and recently asked for Rs 5,000 more. On October 29, he went to her house to pay the money, when four of her associates came inside and locked the door. The gang then thrashed him and made a ransom call to his wife demanding Rs 2 lakh. The accused also forced him to undress and recorded videos. They threatened him that they would upload the videos if he failed to ply them with more money later. Based on the complaint, the police detained the accused. During interrogation, the accused revealed that Anuradha had hatched the honey trap plan and sought the help of her friends, who were involved in several crimes. ENS

Girl's death: Probe on, school says she was ill

DONNA EVA & PRAVEEN KUMAR
@Bengaluru

An investigation is going on into the death of a nine-year-old girl at a private school in Bengaluru. While her parents alleged that corporal punishment at the school caused her death, the school maintained it was due to natural causes.

On Friday afternoon, shortly after the lunch break, the girl, Nishita, who was a Class 4 student at RD International School in Gangammanagudi in Jalahalli East, collapsed in her classroom. She was rushed to CANS Multispecialty Hospital and later to MS Ramaiah Hospital. The school authorities said that Nishita was declared brought dead. "We rushed her to the hospital immediately after she collapsed. Doctors said they found no external injuries and that she might have had a weak heart that could have contributed to her collapse. The police are waiting for the postmortem report," R Saleem, coordinator for the school, told TNIE. He said in the morning, Nishita had complained that she was feeling sick and also of stomach ache. Parents alleged she was punished by her teacher during class hours.

Both the Department of Public Education and Gangammanagudi police are investigating the case.

"The Gangammanagudi police have registered a case of unnatural death. Nobody has been taken into custody," said Vinayak Patil, DCP (North).

Block Education Officer Ashwathanarayana KN said he visited the school and added that they too are waiting for the postmortem report. "The police have taken the CCTV footage from the school to determine the sequence of events. The hospital told us no external injuries were seen on the body and school authorities also mentioned that she had been feeling unwell for the last few days," he said.

Tiff over maintenance cost, SI 'slaps' society member

Parappana Agrahara sub-inspector Gangadhar MR, a resident of Mahaveer Orchids, was seen in a video hitting and manhandling another resident. The video was circulated on Twitter, where residents expressed their ire regarding the officer's behaviour.

An RWA member said, "I was standing in the balcony when I saw Gangadhar slapping a society member. When I rushed downstairs to stop him, he manhandled me."

The RWA member alleged that Gangadhar had failed to pay the maintenance charges for water, power backup and garbage collection over the last few months, and so, the connections to his home were switched off. However, Gangadhar said that as a tenant he has paid full amount to the owner, and complained that the supply was disconnected for no reason.

He alleged that the videos have been doctored by the residents who have included the part when he is seen hitting a member. He accused the society members of twisting his hands, which resulted in an injury to his right-hand finger, and as a response, he hit them back.

The officer in-charge of Parappana Agrahara police station, Narendra Kumar said that they are inquiring into the incident.

The police officers of Hoysala police station were also present, and recorded the incident on their phones. Gangadhar said they were barred from entering the society premises, and therefore, he stepped out to bring them in.

School Education and Literacy Minister BC Nagesh has hit out at Leader of Opposition in Assembly Siddaramaiah blaming the latter's government for the poor state of government schools in Karnataka. This comes after Siddaramaiah criticised the recent order by Nagesh to implement meditation in schools and PU colleges. The former CM said instead of bringing in such rules, the focus should be on developing schools. The minister also stated that the benefit of meditation on children has been proven.

'CURRENT ECOSYSTEM AN ADVANTAGE FOR K'TAKA, WE'VE TO BELIEVE IN OURSELVES AND GO FORWARD'

TEAM TNIE

AMID the recessionary trends in many developed countries, the Global Investors Meet (GIM) in Bengaluru, which concluded on Friday, attracted nearly Rs 10 lakh crore in investment, exceeding its expectations. Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai spoke to The New Sunday Express on the government's plans to take these investments beyond Bengaluru, generate employment opportunities and encourage future technologies. Excerpts:

Karnataka managed to attract investments during the GIM, despite recessionary trends in many countries. How do you look at it?
Basically, the GIM is an instrument where confidence is instilled in people who mean business and want to invest, especially after Covid-19, as the entire world scenario is gloomy. Most economically well-developed countries like the United States of America and many countries in the European Union are fighting inflation and also recession. In any situation, there will be a certain amount of interest in investing in every part of the world. As a government, I see this as an opportunity.

At the moment, the governments in different parts of the world are not very sure of their growth. They don't have the courage to go in a big way. They are fighting their domestic issues. I feel this is an opportunity for India, especially Karnataka. If you want to scale up the business, then we have to do something big. During and after the Covid outbreak, the credibility of China has come down for various reasons. There are internal issues in China, too. The entire world is thinking of a China-plus-one strategy. In this scenario, countries like Vietnam, Cambodia and Korea have been taking advantage, but the scale of operation in those countries is too small for the world. India is the only country which can match China, in terms of scaling, technical strength and handling large investments. Karnataka is a very progressive state thanks to the Maharajas and successive governments. The Government of India invested a lot of money in PSUs in the early 50s, 60s and 70s, and because of that we have got very sound technology, skilled personnel and experts. A lot of investments have come in the defence sector to Bengaluru. This ecosystem is an advantage. With all this, we have to believe in ourselves and our capabilities and go forward.

Will the recessionary trends in many other countries have any impact on Karnataka?
For the first time, developed countries are facing this situation as normally underdeveloped and developing countries face such a situation. But the consumption level of the entire world is still the same, so they need somebody to produce for the world at the most economic price and most of the things were done by China. Now, there are certain reservations about China for different reasons. Global gloom is not going to affect our economy and it brings a certain amount of opportunity.

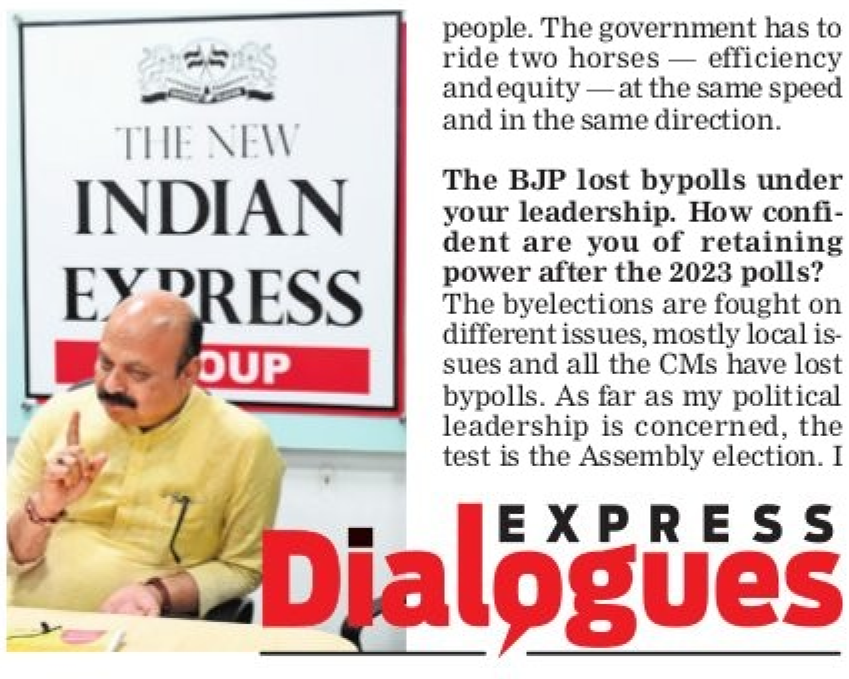
How will these investments help people?
The whole aim of the GIM was on two to three fronts: To give a boost to economic activity in a big way and through these investments, we want to give employment generation the greatest impetus. Investments which can create employment are our priority. We are the leader, but to keep up that leadership we have to have leadership in niche future technologies like hydrogen fuels, renewable energy, semiconductors, defence, aerospace, artificial intelligence and EVs. So, we have to keep up that leadership on all technological fronts. Then that advantage of the technology-driven state should continue.

How do you ensure that all departments keep pace with your speed and maintain momentum?
That is what leadership is all about. We have got definite plans. When we look at the previous GIM, hardly 32% of investment proposals were realised. Now, we have signed more than Rs 2 lakh crore in investments in the last 4-5 months and I have not stopped at that. We spoke to investors and asked them to put up applications with requirements and detailed project reports. We will go through them, analyse them and clear them at the State High-Level Committee. We have taken proactive steps. I have given the mandate to our officers that in the next three months they have to clear all investment proposals. We do not want the MoU business to linger on for a long time. We have got a definite timeline, a definite plan for this. I will personally supervise the whole thing.

Now we are also planning to take it up sector-wise and give responsibilities to different departments to ensure that they are in tune with our thinking and speed. This time, it is going to be different. Proper coordination has already been established.

What about taking in investments beyond Bengaluru to other districts?
A lot of investors are showing interest in Hubballi-Dharwad, Ballari, Raichur, Mangaluru, Mysuru and other places. We are insisting companies come to North Karnataka and we are giving more incentives. For example, in the FMCG (Fast Moving Consumer Goods) cluster in Dharwad, we are giving such concessions that no state has offered. Top-notch FMCG companies have already committed and some of them have started working on it. More than Rs 10,000 crore investment is going to come in the next two years and one lakh jobs will be created. So, we are pushing the industry beyond Bengaluru. We are telling them that Bengaluru is already congested and there is no point in coming here. Here there are a lot of other problems than just having industries. But because of the technology, because of the skilled manpower, they want to come here. We want to decongest Bengaluru.

Will the proposed bill help more Kannadigas get jobs?
Earlier, the policy was to give reservation for Kannadigas in Group D posts. We want the reservation in Group B, C and D in all sectors and we will prepare and upskill Kannadigas. We are also coming up with a more comprehensive policy for skill development. I am trying to integrate all our institutions. All these days, skill development was just to register some NGOs and others to develop skills. We have got ITIs, diploma schools and GTTC (Government Tool Room & Training Centre). In every institution, we are going to have a certain percentage of skill development courses twice a year. It will be institutionalised skill development. Once that happens, the credibility of the skilled personnel will also go up and it will be easy for the industries to employ them. There are problems, but we have to have new ways of solving the problems. I am trying to find innovative ways.



Karnataka is contributing around 8.8% to the GDP. Is it proportionate to what we are getting in return?
We should understand the concept of the federal system. If you take the same yardstick, (in Karnataka) more than 40% of our revenue comes from Bengaluru. So, can you invest everything in Bengaluru? We have to take care of remote villages also. You should think of the state as a whole. If the entire country grows then our growth will also continue. We are a contributor state because a lot of people invested here earlier and we have developed thanks to our hard-working people. The government has to ride two horses — efficiency and equity — at the same speed and in the same direction.

The BJP lost bypolls under your leadership. How confident are you of retaining power after the 2023 polls?
The byelections are fought on different issues, mostly local issues and all the CMs have lost bypolls. As far as my political leadership is concerned, the test is the Assembly election. I am fully confident that I will lead my party back to power (in the 2023 Assembly polls).

How is the response to your Janasankalpa Yatra?
There is a groundswell of response. We are fighting it on different issues. It is not only for the sake of politics. We are putting a development agenda, social equity and performance in front and people are responding to it. So, that will culminate into a great support base as a prelude to the election.

Bengaluru is the engine of growth, but its infrastructure is struggling to cope with the development ...
We have to come to terms: On one hand every day thousands of people come to Bengaluru — the highest floating population in the entire country. The highest number of new vehicles, more than 5,000 vehicles, hit the road every day. The size of the roads are the same, the bridges are the same. It is like going to a cinema hall to watch Amitabh Bachchan's movie, if everybody wants to get a ticket, it is not possible. But having said that, we have to find solutions and for that, we should have the right kind of reasoning. Bengaluru was never planned. The core Bengaluru is still good. It was planned right from Kempegowda's time and even after that. But, many new areas, including 110 villages were merged into the city without any infrastructure. All the buildings that house IT/BT firms are located in those villages and many of them took permission from gram panchayats.

The only answer to all this is that we have to decongest the city with better mobility. We have been talking about it and there were some efforts, but it was not comprehensive. We have identified a few towns to develop them. I have even said that in the budget we will develop five new towns. Out of five new towns in Karnataka, at least two new towns should come around Bengaluru. That is the idea and we are working on it. We have appointed agencies. If people feel that there is another Bengaluru, and people want to come to stay and work there, then we can decongest Bengaluru.

Many in your party call you a 'Common Man CM'. What is that you miss about being a CM?
I miss being with my family, friends and even people of my constituency. I cannot go out like a common man. But, every position comes with some cost.

What will be the focus of the government in the next few months?
We have already issued orders for all the schemes, almost 95% of the schemes announced in the budget. We are also implementing most of the schemes which are very essential immediately and we are launching some schemes this month and the next. I want my budget proposals to be implemented and reach the people. That is one part; the second is in the next 3-4 months the next budget is also coming. So the preparation for the next budget will also start. Simultaneously, we are trying to do both those things and we have to have a check on our finances both in revenue and expenditure and we are doing it on a regular basis.

You spoke of seeking suggestions from those who have received Rajyotsava awards in the past to develop the state. How do you plan to go about it?
We have not heard the voices of those people. Many people think about the development of the state and country. I will write to all of them seeking suggestions and we will prepare a document. I want to present it during Akhila Bharat Kannada Sahitya Sammelana.

What legacy would you like to leave behind?
Every CM got his ambition to leave his footprints. Even I want to leave certain footprints. Some CMs are remembered for a policy or a public stand they have taken on different issues. For example, Ramkrishna Hegde is remembered for decentralisation of power, though other things are there. Some people are remembered because of their programmes. BS Yediyurappa is remembered for the "Bhagyalaxmi" scheme. If you want to have a long-term effect then fundamentally you should show as very progressive, but at the same time, that progress has to be justified in the right way and should be distributed in a just way. So, I want to be a reformer in administration. I should be remembered as a social reformer. I want to be remembered as a reformist.

CM bats for laws to stop seizure of ryots' assets

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Saturday said that laws must be introduced to ensure that the properties of farmers, who fail to repay their loans, are not confiscated or auctioned.

Speaking at the concluding ceremony of Krishi Mela 2022, he said warned cooperatives and other department not to undertake any confiscation/auction even if the farmers fail to repay the loans, and give them more time. He asked the department to resolve their plight.

The backbone of the economic growth is the working class, who must be empowered, he said, adding that 60% of the country's economy depends on agriculture, and if this sector is bolstered, there will be growth in industry and service sectors.

He awarded the farmers during the mela, and suggested that agricultural universities must work closely with the government, research on agro-economics, and new methods of farming to strengthen the agricultural sector.

The Yashaswini scheme for farmers has been re-launched from November 1, and International Cereal Mela has been organised in January 2023, the chief minister said. From giving loans to additional 10 lakh farmers compared to last year, the government has undertaken many programmes for the farmers, he said. Speaking about the rural credit system, the CM said he has spoken with Nabard, and has insisted on changing the scale of balance as middlemen are making more profit under the existing system.

KALABURAGI DC TALKS OF FLOODS, SCHOOLS, CRIMES AT GUVS' MEETING

RAMAKRISHNA BADSESHI
@Kalaburagi

DURING a joint conference of Karnataka and Maharashtra Governors to discuss issues concerning border districts, the Kalaburagi district administration raised key matters of importance, including the sudden release of water from Maharashtra dams causing floods in the district, the necessity of opening Kannada medium schools in border districts of Maharashtra and controlling crimes in border areas.

Kalaburagi Deputy Commissioner Yeshwant Gurkar, who briefed the meeting about the plight of the district during monsoon, said that when water is suddenly released from Ujjani and Veer dams in the neighbouring state, villages in the district are prone to flooding and crop loss. "The district administration then has to take up relief measures in Afzalpur and other taluks. Before releasing water, authorities in Maharashtra should send an alert at least a week in advance to officials in Karnataka," he said.

Kannada Medium Schools

Maharahstra towns bordering Kalaburagi district have Kannada medium schools to help students from the region. Sholapur has 14 such schools, Akkalkot 28 and Umarga 30. "With a large number of Kannada-speaking people in these three areas, the Maharashtra government should encourage these schools and open new grant-in-aid Kannada medium schools, similar to Marathi medium schools in Karnataka," Gurkar said.

Joint task force

There is a need to set up a joint task force by Karnataka and Maharashtra excise departments to curb the illegal movement of liquor and narcotics in border areas, and information about people involved in excise crimes in border areas should be shared, he said.

To curb illegal transportation of sand from Karnataka to Maharashtra, a checkpost has been proposed at Mashal village of Afzalpur taluk.

Police and food and civil supplies department officials should conduct joint raids as there are reports of foodgrains meant for the poor in Kalaburagi district being illegally stored, polished and sold from the mills located in the Umarga town of Osmanabad district.

He urged the Maharashtra government to provide transit accommodation to migrant labourers of Aland, Afzalpur and Jevargi, and also some parts of Kalaburagi taluk migrating to Mumbai and Pune for jobs.

CONSENSUS ON SIGNBOARDS IN KANNADA, MARATHI IN BORDER AREAS

Belagavi: Maharashtra Governor Bhagat Singh Koshyari and his Karnataka counterpart Thawaarchand Gehlot came to a consensus that signboards should be displayed in both Kannada and Marathi in the border areas of both the states, during their joint conference in Kolhapur on Friday. They have also emphasised the need for greater coordination between the local administrations across districts of both the states to resolve issues. "The problems arising between the governments of Maharashtra and Karnataka should be solved at the state-level through discussions between officials," said Koshyari, while addressing top officials from both the states. Collectors and SPs of five districts of border areas of Maharashtra and four districts of Karnataka were present. Gehlot said local administrations in the border districts should work in tandem and ensure better understanding. ENS

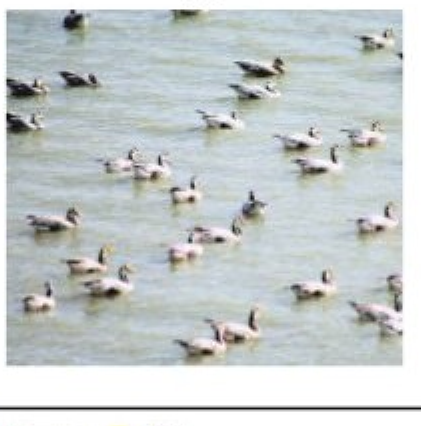
Winged beauties from distant lands come to Gadag's lake



RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @Gadag

THE winged beauties have started arriving at the Magadi Lake, a well-known bird sanctuary in the Gadag region.

The lake, which is 26 km away from Gadag, attracts thousands of birds from Austria, Siberia, Malaysia, Sri Lanka and other countries every winter. Birds from the Himalayan region also come here during winter. The lake is now brimming with the region receiving good rains during the monsoon.

Species such as Eurasian spoonbill, Ruddy shelduck, white-necked stork, spotbill, grey duck, white ibis, painted stork, grey heron, white-necked stork, little cormorant and bar-headed geese can be spotted here.

The Department of Forests has built watchtowers at the sanctuary and provided binoculars and monoculars to facilitate birdwatching. Forest officials have been deputed to help birdwatchers visiting the sanctuary. Pavers have been laid on the paths across the sanctuary for the benefit of visitors.

A villager from Magadi said, "People of the village have been told to keep the lake clean and not to wash clothes there. We want to keep the lake clean and safe for the visiting winged beauties."

A staff of the sanctuary said, "Migratory birds have started arriving and we have to wait for a few more days to see hundreds of geese and other birds."

RSS defers TN route march, to challenge High Court verdict

'Order restricting rally to an auditorium or within four walls is unacceptable to us'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

THE Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) on Saturday decided to postpone the route marches across Tamil Nadu scheduled for November 6 stating that the Madras High Court verdict restricting it to an indoor event is unacceptable to it. "The HC verdict restricting the route march to an auditorium or within four walls of a compound is unacceptable to us. We are firm on getting permission for conducting route marches in public roads as has been done in other states," RSS sources told TNSE.

Meanwhile, in a statement, R Vanniyarajan, president of RSS, South Zone, said the sangh has been conducting its route marches for the past 97 years peacefully across the country, including Tamil Nadu.

Vanniayarajan said to mark the 75th year of Independence and the 125th birth anniversary of Dr BR Ambedkar, the Tamil Nadu unit of the RSS has planned to conduct the marches in 50 locations on October 2 and permission was sought from the police for the same. Since the police did not respond to the request, the RSS approached the High Court.

"As the police raised objections citing law and order, the court ruled that permission should be given for conducting the route march on November 6. However, the HC has restricted the route march to an auditorium or within four walls of the compound. This is unacceptable to us since the route marches have been taking place on public roads in many states, including Jammu and Kashmir, Kerala and West Bengal. The RSS has decided to go for an appeal against this ruling. Hence, the RSS will not be holding the route march as planned on November 6," Vanniyarajan said.

Many political parties have been opposing the RSS march vehemently and have been urging the DMK government not to give permission.

UNDER THREAT FROM COPS, ALLEGE NEIGHBOURS

TUMAKURU DEATHS

THE recent death of a woman and her twin babies in Tumakuru has taken a curious turn with several residents of Bharatinagar here, including the victim's neighbour, alleging that they are under pressure from the police not to issue statements against the doctor and three nurses of Tumakuru District General Hospital who have been suspended for negligence.

The allegations surface at a time when there is a demand to book the doctor and nurses on charges of culpable homicide.

Kasturi, 30, who was in labour, had visited the hospital on Wednesday night along with her neighbour Sarojamma. Kasturi was, however, denied treatment after she failed to produce her Aadhaar card and government health card. She returned home and on Thursday morning, she and the twins died due to complications.

When a delegation led by People's Union for Civil Liberties member K Dorairaju visited Bharathinagar on Friday, the residents, including Sarojamma, complained that the police, during the course of the investigation, were "threatening" them not to issue statements against the doctor and nurses. "They even threatened to fix us in the case," she told the delegation. The CCTV camera footage of the victim visiting the hospital is already with the police who have registered a case of unnatural death.

Speaking to TNSE, Superintendent of Police Rahulkumar Shahapurwad, however, denied the charges. He said that he would take action against the police personnel if the civil society members bring the matter to his notice with evidence.

Natl Security Council needs to be governed by law: Ex-Spl Secretary

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE National Security Council (NSC) should be governed by law and not by executive order, former Special Secretary, Cabinet Secretariat Vappala Balachandran, has said.

Speaking about his book "Intelligence Over Centuries," at Synergia Foundation in Bengaluru, Balachandran, a national security intelligence specialist said there is a need to clearly define the contours of the National Security Council and what is supposed to do.

The NSC is headed by the Prime Minister. It was established in 1998 and advises the PM on matters of national security and strategic issues.

The National Security Council is supposed to work as a think-tank, decision-maker and implementer, and that is the real role of the National Security Council, he said.

Balachandran, who was a member of the two-member high-level committee appointed by the Maharashtra government to enquire into police response to the Mumbai 26/11 terror attacks, said often Open-Source Intelligence (OSI) is not given importance, which is not good because many a time they get a lot of hints from OSI. There is a mistaken impression that only information provided by dedicated agencies is called intelligence as 90% of information is available openly and they need to be alert to study it, he said.

In his book, Balachandran mentioned the importance of OSI and the Maharashtra Government's failure to study the OSI before the 26/11 terror attack.

Stating that his book is about the history of intelligence, he said there are no discussions on current operations and there is no politics involved in it. He has examined various cases, which are known as an intelligence failures. He also looked at the effect of the British system on Indian Intelligence in the initial years, major intelligence organisations.

Record! D'gere varsity results out just 2 hrs after exams

G SUBHASH CHANDRA
@ Davanagere

THE evaluation department of Davanagere University has set a record of sorts by declaring the results of the sixth semester under graduation and fourth semester post graduation exams within two hours of the examination. Not just that, the results were declared within 15 minutes of completion of evaluation.

Speaking to TNSE, Registrar (Evaluation) Dr K Shivashankar said, "The evaluation work (both internal and external) of Computer Science, Mathematics, Physics, Economics and Botany was completed within two hours of the exam after which the results were published and shared to the students over phone."

He said that 90% of the students passed the examination. "We conducted the evaluation process in an error-free manner," he said. Over 41,000 UG and 4,000 PG students have benefitted by the speedy evaluation. This has helped UG students to apply for PG programmes and helped PG students to apply for jobs, he added.

Dr Shivashankar further said that Davanagere University is the first in Karnataka to adopt the Unified University College Management System (UUCMS) and announced results of first semester UG students under the new National Education Policy-2020. "This has brought transparency in the evaluation process," he said, adding, "Within 10 days we will announce the results of the second semester students under NEP."

Candidates to learn to make different types of wine

CANDIDATES will also learn how to ferment grapes, besides being trained in viticulture (art and science of growing grapes), storage and service of wines, and food pairing.

"Growing grapes and ripening is the major process involved in manufacturing wine. Industries contribute only 20 per cent in the winemaking process. In India, we have many grape valleys like the ones in Nasik and Pune. In Karnataka, it is in the Cauvery and Krishan river valleys. Through our course, candidates will learn to make different varieties of wine." he added.

The Board has called tenders for service providers. These service providers should have a team of teachers, with at least one of them being a holder of WSET (London).

The Board is also offering paid courses for private individuals, but the minimum number of candidates in each group should be at least 20, Sarvesh said.

Ten Sri Lankan Tamils were rescued from Naduthurai islet near Dhanushkodi in Ramanathapuram district early on Saturday | EXPRESS

10 SL Tamils, including 3-month-old, arrive in TN

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Ramanathapuram

UNABLE to bear the punishing economic distress in Sri Lanka, 10 more Tamils, including a three-month-old boy, fled the island nation and landed at Naduthurai islet near Dhanushkodi in Ramanathapuram district early on Saturday after undergoing a perilous journey for hours braving rough sea, lashing wind and pounding rain.

According to sources, M Jeyakumar (45), his wife J Yogeshwari (42) and daughters J Tamilmathi (22) and J Kanimathi (15) of Mannar; R Pushpam (64) and her son R Prabhakar (43) of Mullai Theevu; and R Justin (42) his wife J Ausiya (31), daughter J Ansika (3) and three-month-old son J Anjithan of Yazhpanam commenced their journey on a fibre boat from Mannar on Friday night.

Speaking to reporters in Dhanushkodi, R Pushpam, a daily-wage labourer, said surviving in the island had become difficult for her, particularly with a son with a mental condition, "The price of sugar has skyrocketed to 300 Sri Lankan Rupee (SLR) per kg and price of rice per kg is 250 SLR. There is also shortage of medicines in government hospitals in Sri Lanka," she said. "Our boat ride in the dark was scary because of the rough sea and we were continuously battered by rainfall. We risked our lives thinking it is better to die on the boat than to live there. It was quite difficult to protect the three-month-old baby amid the heavy rain and strong winds, she said.

Kerala govt to challenge Governor Arif in court

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ T'Puram

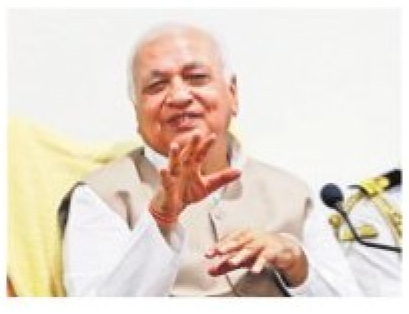
ARMED with advice from Constitutional experts and senior Supreme Court lawyers, the state government is planning to take legal recourse against Governor Arif Mohammed Khan.

The government is determined to legally take on the governor and is exploring various options, including approaching the Supreme Court, sources said.

The LDF government has sought advice on record from Constitutional expert Fali S Nariman, senior advocate with the Supreme Court, on the possible legal options before it against the governor, who has been sitting on bills passed by the state assembly.

The sources said the government has got positive response from legal experts on further action against the governor. The government plans to point out in the court that the governor has failed to discharge his constitutional duties as per Article 200.

"When a bill comes for his assent, the governor can either give the assent, send it back, withhold his assent by citing the reason for doing so, or reserve it for the consideration of the President. The government has sought legal advice since the governor has not taken any of these actions," they said. As per Article 200, the governor should take action



"as soon as possible". The government wants to bring in clarity from the court on the time frame too. Two controversial legislation -- the Lok Ayukta and University Amendment Bills -- have been pending before the governor for some time now. The government feels that the governor has been sitting on them, without any action, since no timeframe is mentioned.

The government is of the view that the governor's action is anti-constitutional, and hence, legal options can be explored. There are also plans to bring to the notice of the court certain statements made by the governor making it clear that he would not give his assent to the legislation.

The government is also learnt to be exploring the feasibility of bringing in an ordinance to remove the governor as chancellor of universities. It's learnt that the government has also held talks with former Attorney General KK Venugopal on the legal measures to counter the governor's move against vice-chancellors.

Man poses as MLA to transfer KSRTC staff, held

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WILSON Garden police have arrested a 30-year-old man who was masquerading as an MLA to try and transfer a driver-cum-conductor with the Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC).

The arrested is Punith (30) a native of Malavalli in Mandya district. The police said that on October 28, Puneeth had made a call to V Anmbukumar, MD of KSRTC, and introduced himself as BJP MLA L Nagendra, representing Chamarajana constituency in Mysuru.

He asked the MD to consider the transfer of Balaraju, who is a driver-cum-conductor from Mandya depot, to Malavalli depot due to health problems of a family member.

Upon the MD's directions, the divisional controller of Mandya Division called the MLA to verify whether it was him. The MLA denied contacting the MD. The Security and Vigilance Department swung into action and began gathering information from Balaraju, who said during questioning that Punith is an employee with the KSRTC central office, and assured him about his transfer through the MD.

A complaint has been filed with Wilson Garden police.

HC asks DGP to set up task force for digitisation of probe records

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court ordered the Director General of Police to set up a task force consisting of head of the police of I-T wing, principal secretary, e-Governance Department, nominee of the director of the National Crime Records Bureau and director of the Crime and Criminal Tracking Network and Systems to evolve a method to share digital records with the courts.

A division bench of Justices Suraj Govindaraj and G Basavaraja passed the order, while allowing the appeals filed by Punit and Godhavari from Mudhol. They have challenged the conviction order passed by a trial court in March 2019, alleging that the investigation was not carried out properly into the alleged murder of a woman by Punit.

The court said it was difficult to go through the documents submitted by the investigation officer as all the documents were handwritten.

The court said it is surprising that the police IT wing, having commenced digitalisation in 2008, is still sending handwritten documents in a 2016 case. The DGP should issue instructions to all the investigating officers to record the statements by typing it in appropriate software, it said.

The court observed that the investigation was not carried out properly by the police. The DGP should provide training to all investigating officers and evolve standard operating procedure for investigation, it added.

COP27: END SILENCE ON RICH NATIONS' WASTAGE

THE THIRD EYE

SHANKKAR AIYAR

IT is not often that the word of the year arrives with perfect contextual resonance. Permacrisis, which Collins Dictionary defines as 'an extended period of instability and insecurity', captures the spectre of climate change facing the world.

It has been nearly three decades since the adoption of the UN treaty on Climate Change in Rio de Janeiro. The Conference of Parties aka COP has been largely reduced to a calendar event. From Berlin in 1995 to 'together for the planet' at Glasgow 2021, typically the tendency is to characterise every COP meet as a breakthrough. Till the next one appears on the horizon with a litany of flailing promises.

A new report from IMF chief shows even if, and it's a big if, the declared country targets are met, they would reduce global greenhouse gas emissions by a mere 11 per cent. The UNEP Emissions Gap Report states that national pledges made since Glasgow "make a negligible difference to predicted 2030 emissions".

Literature emanating from the developed world is frequently littered with troublesome definitions and contested interpretations. For instance, the EU presents India among the top five in CO2 emissions. On a per capita basis, India, at around 1.9 tonnes, is at the bottom half -- ranked 126 and its emission is less than a 15th of that emitted by the United States and a sixth of Scandinavian countries. Perception preferences depend on the parish of the persuaded.

Climate change is a global problem and mitigation is shackled by localised politics. The goal of "$100 billion/year of climate finance by 2020" is yet to be. The new mantra of ESG, if not steered clear of politics, could morph into a non-tariff barrier to be deployed by capital-rich economies and impact investments in the energy transition. The construct of carbon pricing is incomplete – and it sidesteps the damage imposed by the developed while threatening the aspirations of developing nations. For sure, these constructs are on the agenda at COP27 and will be engineered and dismantled at Sharm El-Shaikh.

A crisis, or crises in the plural, is fuelled by both action and inaction. In the case of climate change, the aggravation is largely about inaction. One facet which is rarely discussed at the COP meets is the impact of wastage across rich nations on climate - and finds only passing mention in reports published recently by the World Bank, the IMF and the UNEP.

Agriculture accounts for over 24 per cent of greenhouse gas emissions. And 17 per cent of total global food production is wasted. Facts though have not provoked action. Europe, according to the European Bureau of Environment, wastes over 153 million tonnes of food a year – it wastes much more than what it imports – and causes nearly six per cent of the EU's total greenhouse gas emissions. The US Environment Protection Agency estimates that food waste and loss in the US "embodies 170 million tonnes CO2 equivalent GHG emissions, equal to the annual CO2 emissions of 42 coal-fired power plants.

Electricity and heat production account for over 25 per cent or a fourth of global greenhouse gas emissions. It is true that the need for and use of electricity and energy depends on the geography of usage. It is equally true that scant attention is paid to the magnitude of wastage, the gap between need and want, and conservation in the political economy of the richest nations.

Last week British newspapers reported that rooms in parliament "are said to be heated to 30C". Now, this is a country which witnessed an extreme weather event this summer and an economy which has been battered by a cost of living crisis fuelled by energy prices. In France, the government is evangelising an energy conservation plan. A luxury goods giant announced it would lower heating and shut off lights three hours earlier. Ostensibly there is room for conservation, but wastage persisted and awaited an energy crisis.

There is also waste caused by what the UNEP's Global Resources Outlook report of 2019 characterises as "consume and throwaway models of consumption". This, it observes, has had a "devastating impact on our planet", is responsible for "90 per cent of biodiversity loss and water stress" through resource extraction and processing and contributes "about half of global greenhouse gas emissions". The factoid hasn't changed outlooks. One representation of this, the so-called footsy index, is the annual sales of nearly 20 billion pairs of sneakers. An MIT-led lifecycle assessment estimates production of a typical pair generates 30 pounds of CO2 emissions.

There are lessons here for India as its economy evolves in scale. It is vulnerable to climate shocks – on the coastline and in the hinterland. To achieve its emission target it must enable policy to cub post-harvest agri waste of grains and perishables, repurpose its crop map to optimise use of water, reform power utilities to check leakage and loss, proper sustainability for efficiency and resilience. It must leverage rooftop solar to light homes, as also to reduce dependence on cooking gas, and expand use of renewable for transport. Climate change transcends national boundaries. Mitigation rests on small and big initiatives. In a permacrisis the sum of pieces matters. The structural challenges in the global economy illuminate the need for conservation. The silence on wastage must end. It must be flagged at COP27.

MULTI-DIMENSIONAL POVERTY

POWER & POLITICS

THERE is a principle known as Occam's (or Ockham's) razor. William of Ockham was a philosopher and theologian from the late 13th and early 14th centuries. The principle or maxim, in Latin, is Numquam ponenda est pluralitas sine necessitate, or some variant of it. Stated in English, without necessity, one shouldn't introduce plurality. Used in the context of competing hypotheses, the suggestion is that a simple explanation will suffice. Do not complicate matters unnecessarily. I think the same principle should also apply to studies on poverty. Readers of these columns will recall I mentioned headcount ratios, the percentage of the population below a poverty line, the Tendulkar poverty line being the official one. We don't have NSS (National Sample Survey) consumption expenditure data to compute poverty ratios after 2011-12. But, if we use PLFS (periodic labour force survey) as an approximation, the all-India poverty ratio will be around 20%, pre-Covid, with inter-State and rural/urban variations. We now have another report by UNDP and OPHI (Oxford Poverty and Human Development Initiative), a global multi-dimensional poverty index (MDPI). Just released, this has been extensively reported in the media. To quote, "The 2019/2021 data show that about 16.4 per cent of India's population live in poverty, with an average intensity of 42.0 per cent. About 4.2 per cent of the population live in severe poverty (meaning their deprivation score is 50 per cent or higher)." Notice the numbers, in the same range as that 20%.

Of course, poverty is multi-dimensional. No one denies it. Head count ratios don't reveal everything. No one denies that either. But how much value addition is there in developing more and more sophisticated indices to capture this, especially when there are data constraints? I mentioned HDI (human development index) earlier, with its three pillars of health, education and standard of living. MDPI supplements and refines this notion further, with some significant changes in the standard of living. In MDPI, health is captured through nutrition and child mortality; education through years of schooling and school attendance; and standard of living through electricity, sanitation, drinking water, housing, cooking fuel and assets. The last is what Economic Survey called basic necessities. Each of the three pillars (health, education, standard of living) has equal weightage, that is, a weight of one-third. And within the pillars, one does an arithmetic average of the scores on the indicators, two each for health and education and six indicators for the standard of living. I suspect this might not be very clear. Take the health indicator of nutrition. Is anyone in the household undernourished? If the answer is yes, the household scores 0. Suppose the answer is no, the household scores 1. This is aggregated, using the weights I mentioned, to get a deprivation score for the household.

We now have definitions of poverty, vulnerability to poverty and severe poverty. Let me quote from the methodological note. "To identify multidimensionally poor people, the deprivation scores for each indicator are summed to obtain the household deprivation score. A cut-off of 1/3 is used to distinguish between poor and non-poor people. If the deprivation score is 1/3 or higher, that household (and everyone in it) is considered multidimensionally poor. People with a deprivation score of 1/5 or higher but less than 1/3 are considered to be vulnerable to multi-dimensional poverty. People with a deprivation score of 1/2 or higher are considered to be in severe multi-dimensional poverty." If you think this has made everything unnecessarily complicated, that's precisely the point I made. After all that conceptual sophistication, I need data. Data are needed not only for India but for every country being ranked. Those who know about such matters will know about NFHS-5, National Family Health Survey for 2019-21, with some of the fieldwork in June 2019 and the rest in April 2021.

UNDP qualifies its MDPI report. "Because most countries conducted their latest household survey prior to 2020, the impacts of the Covid-19 pandemic on poverty cannot yet be assessed." For India, we already know that NFHS-5 has documented improvements in the provision of basic necessities. Though a bit of NFHS-5 was after Covid, it was before the worst excesses of the pandemic. It was expected that poverty would decline because of the three-pronged inclusion plank of growth, provision of collective private goods and targeted subsidies. To quote from the report, "The reduction in Multidimensional Poverty Index (MPI) value in India was swift across the two most recent periods. MPI estimates based on the recently released 2019/2021 Demographic and Health Survey for the country show that 415 million people exited poverty between 2005/2006 and 2019/2021 – including about 140 million since 2015/2016 – and that the country's MPI value and incidence of poverty were both more than halved. The MPI value fell from 0.283 in 2005/2006 to 0.122 in 2015/2016 to 0.069 in 2019/2021, and the incidence of poverty fell from 55.1 per cent to 27.7 per cent to 16.4 per cent. Sustainable Development Goal target 1.2 is to reduce at least by half the proportion of men, women and children of all ages living in poverty in all its dimensions according to national definitions by 2030, and India's progress shows that this goal is feasible, even at a large scale." Notice that my off-hand figure of 20% wasn't that far off. Whatever be the measure or indicator we use, that is the rough range. Give it another decade, and we will be just over 10%.

BIBI RETURNS WITH A TACTICAL VICTORY

OPINION

BENJAMIN Netanyahu is back. This time with a resounding victory in the latest parliamentary elections in Israel, once again disproving opinion polls which predicted a close fight with a wafer-thin majority for his right-religious bloc. The comfortable margin he and his allies have secured will also enhance his ability to wean away other parties to make a more stable government.

Since he took over the reins of the party following the 1992 elections, this was Netanyahu's eleventh Knesset election as the leader of Likud; earlier, he formed governments on five occasions and failed to do so in the remaining five. Even before the current victory, Netanyahu already has the distinction of being the longest-serving prime minister of Israel and has served in that capacity for over 15 years, initially during 1996-1999 and then again between 2009 and 2021. Indeed, he has dominated the Israeli political landscape since Yitzhak Shamir lost to Yitzhak Rabin in the June 1992 election.

Netanyahu benefitted immensely from the Likud's party discipline, cohesion and unity. Since the founding of its forerunner, the Herut, in 1948, the Likud only saw four leaders: Menachem Begin, Yitzhak Shamir, Netanyahu and Ariel Sharon. The Labour, on the contrary, had over a dozen leaders during the same period.

In addition, the proverbial TINA (There Is No Alternative) factor worked wonders for Netanyahu. Though there were periodic internal contests for leadership, he has succeeded in outmanoeuvring all his rivals; some of his late-day competitors, like former prime minister Naftali Bennet, leader of the Russian-immigrants based Yisrael Beitenu Avigdor Lieberman and former Foreign Minister Tzipi Livni, were once Netanyahu's close confidants.

Tuesday's Knesset election was the twenty-fifth since the first election in January 1949 and the fifth since April 2019, when the current phase of political uncertainties began. If two elections in 2019 proved inconclusive, the 2020 election saw Netanyahu temporarily holding on to power with the help of the Blue and White Party led by former general Benny Gantz. The 2021 election led to an unwieldy and internally contradictory coalition headed by former businessman-billionaire Bennet. Finally, the wafer-thin 61-member government could survive only for a year, with Foreign Minister Yair Lapid becoming the caretaker Prime Minister a few weeks before the latest election.

Moreover, the Arab parties are deeply divided; in several recent elections, the four prominent Arab parties fought under the banner of the Joint List and maximised their gains. Indeed, in March 2020, they secured 15 sears, the highest in Israel's history. But ideological and personality clashes and Ra'am's willingness to join the Bennet cabinet in June last year—again a first since 1948—undermined the Arab unity. Thus, as feared, Balad could not make it to the Knesset, while two other lists managed to keep the joint Arab representation in the Knesset at ten.

Though the gains of the Likud are marginal, this was a decisive victory for the right-religious bloc, which eluded Netanyahu during the four previous elections. Second, the real winner is the Religious Zionist party led by Itamar Ben-Gvir.

As the final results are coming, a few things are clear. First, though the gains of the Likud are marginal (perhaps two seats higher than in 2021), this was a decisive victory for the right-religious bloc, which eluded Netanyahu during the four previous elections. Second, the real winner is the Religious Zionist party led by Itamar Ben-Gvir. The rise of Ben-Gvir, known for his extremist views towards Israel's Arab citizens and disdain for the rule of law, has caused concerns both within and outside Israel. During the election campaign, Netanyahu even declared that Ben-Gvir would occupy a prominent position in his cabinet. Ben-Gvir and his supporters marginalised other right-wing groups, and the list is poised to emerge as the third large bloc in the Knesset.

Third, a Netanyahu-led coalition will be more stable and ideologically cohesive than any alternatives under Lapid or others. At the same time, given social and ideological cleavages, the political instability in Israel will not end anytime soon. Fourth, the Knesset elections are based on domestic issues rather than foreign policy achievements. If Netanyahu could not capitalize on the Abraham Accords in 2021, the recent maritime agreement with Lebanon did not help Lapid either.

Fifth, a Netanyahu-led government in Israel will be manna for the republicans in the US. Netanyahu will revive the Obama-era tension over Iran and the peace process with the Palestinians. Hence, one could expect some redrawing of relations with Washington during the run-up to the 2024 US presidential elections. Six, under Netanyahu, Israel will have more time to work towards expanding its footprints in the Arab world at the cost of the Palestinian track. This might provoke more unrest and violence in the Palestinian territories. Seventh, his return to office will only increase the focus on the ongoing corruption cases against Netanyahu. One should anticipate illiberal rhetoric against the Supreme Court and 'popular mandate' would be used to curtail the functioning of the judiciary.

Above all, despite the ideological cohesion, including Ben-Gvir in the cabinet will create tension between Israel and the US, especially with the liberal segment of the Jewish community. Hence, President Herzog might follow the 1980s practice of his father and predecessor, Chaim Herzog, and nudge Netanyahu to form a unity government to address pressing national issues. Should such a situation become inevitable, the ever-ambitious Netanyahu will not hesitate to sacrifice his ideological ally Ben-Gvir, to form the next Israeli government.

Gujarat elections

When the Election Commission failed to announce the dates of elections for Gujarat along with Himachal Pradesh, the opposition parties alleged that it was only to accommodate the BJP, particularly Prime Minister Modi to complete their rallies and announcement of welfare measures and various other developmental schemes in the state. As suspected by them, the Election Commission has announced the election dates immediately after Prime Minister completed his election rallies. Will the EC come out with the reason for delay in announcing Gujarat poll dates?

Tharcius S Fernando, Chennai

Congress strategy

The ensuing Gujarat Polls could be a cake walk for the BJP, provided Congress does not adopt a suicidal tactic to contain the BJP. As AAP has nothing to lose in Gujarat, it will try to show its best performance and its question of having a tacit understanding with Congress is ruled out. So, in normal situations, it can make things easy for BJP. But if Congress adopts suicidal tactics to contain BJP and vote for AAP, it can upset the apple cart of the BJP.

Dharmarajan A K, Thalassery

Gujarat's AAP factor

The article One disruptor and two old foes perk up Gujarat polls (4th Nov.) was interesting. It has shown the likely impact of the entry of AAP into the election fray. The AAP is banking on its offer of freebies to upset the electoral arithmetic of rivals BJP and Congress. Gujarat will plunge into election mode now and one awaits what strategy Modi-Shah has for retaining Gujarat.

Governors' role

Time and again, the issue of governors role in states has been in the limelight for their alleged interference in the day-to-day administration and friction with the CMs-- the worst being that of Kerala where the Governor raked up the issue of 'withdrawing his pleasure' of appointing a minister. This grey area of confusion should be removed at the earliest for obvious reasons.

Move the SC

Lok Sabha Secretary General who is considered as a Constitutional expert has rightly opined that no useful purpose would be served by submitting joint petition by Tamil Nadu and similarly affected States to remove the Governors (Nov 5). Instead these States should approach the Supreme Court for redressal of their grievances and removal of Governors as a last resort.

Apropos of Kerala waits as Janaki gets ready to sing at T20 World Cup final (Nov.5). Thirteen-year-old Janaki Eswar who has roots in Kerala is all set to sing the song 'We Can Get Together' with the famous Australian band Icehouse at T20 World Cup final. Performing on such a big platform as part of a world event is indeed an honour not only for little Janaki but also for God's own country Kerala she belongs to.

Elephant menace

The Forest officials and the Police force at Santhanpara had a tough time in escorting wild elephants near the revenue quarters and nearby estates recently. People around were frightened with the elephants visit and subsequent rampage. Though it made considerable loss to cardamom planters everyone heaved a sigh of relief with the active intervention of Santhanpara Police and Forest officials who were busy in the recent past with Kurinji blossom. We residents sincerely hope that necessary action will be taken by the panchayat and all concerned in entrusting forest rapid action force to protect the interests of the residents in and around Santhanpara.

Polls on Mulayam, Azam seats on Dec 5

Results of by-election for 5 assembly, 1 LS seats will be declared on December 8

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Election Commission of India on Saturday announced by-elections on five assembly seats in Uttar Pradesh, Odisha, Rajasthan, Bihar and Chhattisgarh and in Mainpuri Lok Sabha constituency (UP) simultaneously with the assembly polls in Gujarat.

The voting for bypolls to all six seats will take place on December 5. The counting of votes will be conducted on December 8. The results of Gujarat and Himachal Pradesh elections will also be announced the same day.

The Mainpuri Lok Sabha seat fell vacant after the death of Samajwadi Party (SP) patriarch Mulayam Singh Yadav. He passed away last month following prolonged illness. By-election on Rampur assembly seat in the state was necessitated by disqualification of incumbent Azam Khan, also from the SP, following his conviction and sentencing in a hate speech case from 2019.

A Rampur court recently had found Khan guilty of making provocative remarks against the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) leaders including UP chief minister of UP Yogi Adityanath during the 2019 Lok Sabha elections. He was convicted to three years imprisonment along with a fine of Rs 2,000. Following his conviction, the office of UP Assembly Speaker announced his disqualification.

The other four assembly seats are Padampur in Odisha, Sardarshahar in Rajasthan, Kurhani in Bihar and Bhanupratappur (reserved) in Chhattisgarh.

The last date of filing nomination for contesting bypolls is November 17.

The assembly seats in Odisha, Rajasthan, and Chhattisgarh remain vacant due to the demise of sitting MLAs. The senior BJD leader Bijay Ranjan Singh Bariha, a five-time MLA from Padampur, passed away at the age of 64 years on October 3. Bhanwar Lal Sharma, a veteran Congress leader, who represented Sardarshahar assembly constituency for seven times died on October 9.

Congress MLA, who was also the Deputy Assembly Speaker Manoj Singh Mandavi, a prominent tribal face, represented the Maoist-hit Bhanupratappur in Kanker district for three terms. He died on October 16.

Bihar RJD MLA Anil Kumar Sahni, representing Kurhani assembly seat, was recently awarded three years in prison for fraudulent withdrawal of money against LTC claims on forged bills during his Rajya Sabha terms hence was disqualified.

SC deplores HCs seeking answer script

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court recently disapproved of the practice of HCs to call for answer scripts and directing revaluation in the absence of a provision.

A bench Justices MR Shah and MM Sundresh in their order said, "We are of the opinion that the High Court was not at all justified in calling the record of the answer scripts and then to satisfy whether there was a need for re- evaluation or not. As reported, the High Courts are calling for the answer scripts/sheets for satisfying whether there is a need for re-evaluation or not and thereafter orders/directs re-evaluation, which is wholly impermissible."

The court further said, "Such a practice of calling for answer scripts/answer sheets and thereafter to order re-evaluation and that too in absence of any specific provision in the relevant rules for re-evaluation and that too while exercising powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is disapproved."

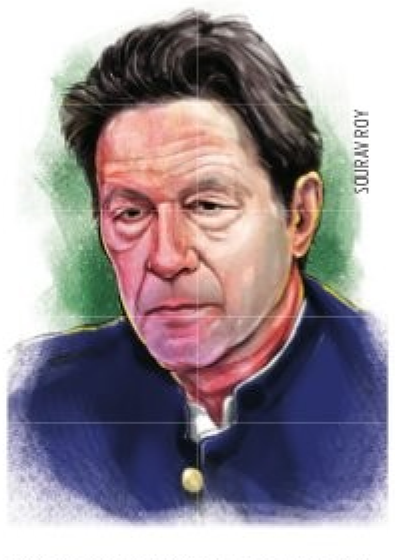
PATHAN'S POLITICAL PITCH & PERILOUS RUN-UP TO POWER

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi



SOURAV ROY

AMONG the most iconic — and innuendo-laden — T shirt one-liners in the late 1970s was Big Boys Play at Night. This sprang from the day-night World Series Cricket that Australian media tycoon Kerry Packer started in 1977.

And the only cricketer who unabashedly donned and flaunted the T shirt emblazoned with the provocative one-liner was Imran Khan. Khan's long mane, an immaculate run-up to the wickets, the sheer pace with which he delivered a cricket ball combined with his devastatingly good looks had electrifying effects — mostly off the pitch and among the women of the times and later. Many women, certainly in India, associated the catchy one-liner not so much with Khan's bowling abilities as much as his reputation of being a playboy and sex symbol. His fan-following in India was legion — Moon Moon Sen, Zeenat Aman and Rekha. Grapevine in Pakistan even announced his engagement to Benazir Bhutto, who was then yet to become PM and get married. That was also the time when Khan featured in a controversial Cinthol soap advert that women on this side of the geographic divide would swoon over.

NEWS MAKER

Khan's entry into cricket was fortuitous. In Imran: The Autobiography of Imran Khan, he recalled that he wouldn't have taken to bowling had it not been for an accident which broke a portion of a skin around the groove of his elbow. Hailing from a privileged background, Khan earned a BA from Keble College at Oxford, in 1975. He debuted for Pakistan in 1971 at the age of 18 and soon turned into one of the most suave cricketers. By the time he and four other Pakistani cricketers played as 'rebels' in Packer's World Series Cricket, he had turned into a genuine fast bowler, hurling the cherry at 139.7 kmph. Khan soon evolved into a nifty all-rounder — he introduced the 'reverse swing' — and a captain par excellence, winning for Pakistan the 1992 World Cup.

After this victory, Khan retired from all forms of cricket, channeling his energies into building a cancer hospital in the name of his mother Shaukat Khanum. This philanthropic act endeared him to many Pakistanis.

The playboy image turned real as Khan entered and exited several relationships, beginning with his first steady girl friend in Sita White, the daughter of British industrialist Gordon White, in 1982. His family life has also been a roller-coaster, with three marriages. After his exit from cricket, he formed the Tehreek-e-Insaf party in 1996. Six years later, in the 2002 general elections, Khan won a solitary seat (from Mianwali) and sat in opposition.

Taking an anti-corruption and clean-governance electoral plank, Khan renamed his party the Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI). He boycotted the 2008 elections. PTI emerged as the second largest party in terms of votes in the May 2013 elections and sat in Opposition in Punjab and Sindh. Khan has mostly been supportive of the military establishment. He did have a soft spot for General Pervez Musharraf and took a reconciliatory position towards the Taliban. A fighter on the cricket pitch, Khan followed a combative approach in politics too, leading massive rallies against the PML(N) government of Nawaz Sharif.

This agitationist approach bore fruit in 2018 when PTI won 176 seats in the National Assembly even as political commentators attributed the victory to the support from the all-pervasive army. Khan's popularity soared and in 2019 he was among Time magazine's 100 most influential global leaders in the world. Khan's stormy tenure as prime minister, however, ended in April 2022 when he had to step down following a no-confidence vote in the National Assembly.

Since then, he has riled against the very military that was allegedly instrumental in pitch-forking him to power. There have been times, when in power, he would often shoot himself in the foot. But much of Pakistan was stunned when, in reality, he was shot at in a rally on November 3.

Road Safety Board in limbo, yet to get head and members

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

A year after the issuance of a notification, the Centre is yet to appoint the chairman and members of the National Road Safety Board (NRSB), set up for promoting road safety, innovation, adoption of new technology and regulating traffic. The ministry of road transport and highways (MoRTH) issued fresh advertisement inviting applications to fill the posts of the chairman and three members last month. Last date of submission was November 4.

The latest advertisement had come after about eight months of the previous attempt made in March. Following the assessment of the applications received earlier, the ministry sought more applications last month and made it clear that the persons who had already applied, needed not to apply again.

"All the applications received in response to the advertisement issued in March and submitted after the second notice will be scrutinised and shortlisted the names. The chairman of the Board and its members will be appointed by the Central Government on the recommendation of search cum selection committee," said the officials. The constitution of NRSB was announced in October last year along with the rules specifying provisions regarding its composition, eligibility for chairman and members of the board. The process for the selection, term of office, procedure for resignation and removal, powers and functions of the Board including meetings was also spelt out.

The purpose of setting up the Board was to formulate specific standards for road safety, traffic management and road construction for hilly regions.

The framing of guidelines for capacity building and development of skills for traffic police, hospital authorities, highway authorities, educational, and research organisations was also the job of the Board specified in the notification.

Almost all states unanimous on NEP, barring some, says Pradhan at OLF

Union Minister Dharmendra Pradhan speaks at the inaugural ceremony of Odisha Literary Festival in Bhubaneswar on Saturday | DEBADATTA MALLICK

Union Minister for Education and Skill Development Dharmendra Pradhan on Saturday said almost all states are unanimous on the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020 barring a few for their own political considerations.

Inaugurating the 10th edition of Odisha Literary Festival (OLF) organised by The New Indian Express here, Pradhan said the NEP aims to transform the country's education system into a world-class one and make India a global knowledge superpower.

The new policy also emphasises on providing quality education to all, regardless of their socio-economic background and its basic objective is to create employability.

Stating that India has made rapid strides in economic growth and is now the fifth largest economy in the world, he said, all the nations of the world look forward to India which is ready to embrace the knowledge economy.

"I have met either chief ministers or education ministers of states having some reservation on the new policy and they said they have no problems with it. But a few states have taken a different public position purely for political reasons," Pradhan told a packed audience.

Responding to a query from Editorial Director of TNIE Prabhu Chawla that NEP 2020 does not appear as a united factor as it enforces students to learn three languages, the union minister said nobody has any objection to learning more languages. "I have no problem with other languages. My basic training is in my mother tongue. I was not a very good student. Even now, I think in Odia and translate it to Hindi and English wherever required of me to address people," he said.

Where is the problem in learning three languages when people take credit for learning multiple languages including foreign languages, Union minister wondered. "The opposition is not to language but other reasons which have nothing to do with the new NEP," he said.

Acknowledging that advanced economies such as Germany, France Japan, Korea, and China have successfully shifted to knowledge-based economy with their national languages, Pradhan said India is now building a road to embark upon knowledge-based growth shedding its colonial past.

The two-day OLF kickstarted with Pradhan lighting the lamp in presence of Chawla, CEO of TNIE Lakshmi Menon and Resident Editor of Odisha Siba Mohanty. Kaveree Bamzai is the festival director.

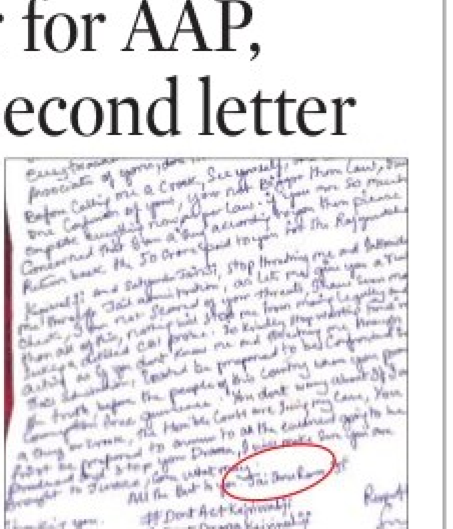
Kejriwal forced me to collect ₹500 cr for AAP, Sukesh in his second letter

UJWAL JALALI @ New Delhi



JAILED conman Sukesh Chandrashekhar has shot off another letter alleging that Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal asked him to collect ₹500 crore for the party. It comes days after he wrote a complaint letter to Delhi L-G VK Saxena alleging that Jain extorted ₹10 crore in 2019 for his "safety" in prison.

"I state that all the facts given in the complaint are true and I stick to them. I will furnish all evidence to the CBI once the investigation starts," Sukesh wrote in the letter addressed to the media.

"The complaint filed is only a small part of the entire episode of events that have taken place.… After my first complaint went public in the media, Satyendra Jain started threatening me through the jail administration," Sukesh wrote. He said he would file a defamation case against Kejriwal for calling him a 'thug.'

The letter further alleged that more than ₹50 crore was paid to AAP, which promised Chandrashekhar an important party post in the South Zone and a possible nomination to the Rajya Sabha. "If you think I am the biggest thug, why did you accept ₹50 crore from me," he asked Kejriwal.

Sukesh alleged that in 2016, the AAP chief forced him to bring over 20 people to contribute ₹500 crore to the party.

UNION housing and urban affairs minister Hardeep Singh Puri on Saturday visited the construction site of the new Parliament building to take stock of the progress of the project. Later, the minister shared three pictures of the under-construction building — ceiling and glass wall panels — on the social networking site and work is progressing at a steady pace.

The Government has been maintaining that the project will be completed by November and the winter session of Parliament will be held in the new building. "Reviewed ongoing construction at the New Parliament Building today. Work is progressing at a steady pace.

Sustainable state-of-the-art building with architectural elements inspired by India's ancient cultural heritage. Modernity meets tradition," Puri tweeted. During a visit to Kochi on Friday, the minister said that more than 4,000 people are working round the clock for the construction of the new Parliament building. The redevelopment of the Central Vista, the nation's power corridor, envisages a common central secretariat, revamping the three-km Rajpath from Rashtrapati Bhavan to India Gate, a new office and residence of the prime minister, and a new vice-president enclave.

In December 2020, Prime Minister Narendra Modi had laid the foundation stone of the new Parliament building. Tata Projects Ltd is constructing the building. The new building will also have a grand Constitution Hall to showcase India's democratic heritage, a lounge for members of Parliament, a library, multiple committee rooms, dining areas and ample parking space.

In March, the minister of state for housing and urban affairs (MoHUA) Kaushal Kishore told this newspaper said that the construction work of the new Parliament House had been expedited to meet the deadline so that the upcoming winter session can be held in the building as planned by the Government.

Under the Central Vista redevelopment project, the government will also construct an Executive Enclave that will house a new Prime Minister's Office, Cabinet Secretariat, India House and National Security Council Secretariat.

PM raises pitch for stable, corruption-free Himachal

At poll rally at Sundernagar, Modi says during Congress rule, vested interests targeted small states, but people have rejected such forces

HARPREET BAJWA @Mandi

RAPID progress and a stable government are necessary for Himachal Pradesh, said Prime Minister Narendra Modi, adding the people of the state had made up their minds to retain BJP in power.

"Every single vote will define the state's development journey for the next 25 years," said the PM.

Addressing an election rally at Sundernagar in the home district of Chief Minister Jai Ram Thakur, PM Modi said the state polls this time were special because the votes cast on November 12 would not only decide the state's fate for the next five years but also define what shape the state's development would take for the next 25 years. "A few weeks ago, India completed 75 years of independence. When the country celebrates 100 years of its independence, closer to that, Himachal will also complete 100 years of its formation. Therefore, the next 25 years are going to be very crucial," said Modi.

"During the Congress rule, many elements with vested interests emerged who did not want to see a stable government in India. Small states of the country have always been the target of these groups. From Uttarakhand, Goa and Manipur, many such small states have now rejected instability. The same happened in Uttar Pradesh, but the people there changed the scenario and brought Yogi ji's government again," he said.

"The people know the BJP stands for stability, sewa bhaav (service), sam-bhaav (equanimity) and accorded the highest priority to development. That's why the people of Himachal Pradesh have decided to bring the BJP back to power. I am happy the people of Himachal, its youth, mothers and sisters understand this very well.''

He also praised One Rank One Pension scheme that ensured pensions for the families of the armed forces living in the state.

The PM again raised his pitch for a 'double engine government' for better development of Himachal Pradesh.

"We gave free vaccines to the state. If Himachal had a Congress government, then the state would have been the last to receive these vaccines. You (the public) pressed the right button (on the EVM) and that's why so much development happened," he said.

Taking a dig at the former Congress governments, he said they built "only 15 houses" for the people. "Making false promises and giving false guarantees has been an old trick of the Congress. It never gave priority to the development of the state while BJP fulfilled its promises,'' he said.

"After Independence, Congress committed country's first scam in the defence sector. During its regime, Congress always took commissions in defence deals. It committed scams of thousands of crores,'' alleged Modi.

The PM also addressed a rally in Solan, where he touched on the 'double engine' theme and praised Solan's development. Attacking the previous governments at the Centre, Modi said, "For 30 years there was instability in Delhi as crores of rupees were wasted in frequent elections. In 2014, people voted for a stable government," he said.

Earlier the PM visited Radha Soami Satsang at Beas near Amritsar in Punjab and met its chief Gurinder Singh Dhillon. Modi also went to the community kitchen of the sect. In February, the PM met Dhillon in Delhi and also praised the spiritual organisation for its social service.

Cong promises to revive old pension scheme, 300 units of free power

HARPREET BAJWA @ Mandi

DECIDE

WITH promises such as implementation of the Old Pension Scheme, allocation of ₹10 crore startup fund in each constituency, and giving 300 units of free power, the Congress on Saturday released its election manifesto titled 'Himachal, Himachliyat aur Hum'.

Releasing the manifesto in Shimla, Congress poll manifesto committee chairman Dhani Ram Shandil said that the BJP has failed to live up to the expectations of people, and has not fulfilled its promises.

"This is not just a poll manifesto but a document prepared for the development and welfare of the people of Himachal Pradesh," he said "An attempt has been made to address issues like price rise, unemployment and problems concerning employees. Also an effort has been made to include the aspirations of women, youth, government workers and ex-servicemen," he added.

Shandil said that the Congress has always honoured the commitment it made in Rajasthan and Chhattisgarh.

The manifesto promises setting up of a 'Youth Commission' to look into issues related to education and employment. An 'Anti Drug Abuse Enforcement Authority' headed by a sitting high court judge will also be set up, as also a recruitment board to ensure that all posts are filled within six months of advertisement, the Congress said, alleging irregularities in recruitments done during the present regime.

Besides restoration of the old pension scheme, the manifesto says that arrears due to the employees would be given and contract employees would be regularised in two years. The party has promised 300 units free power, ₹1,500 per month to women in 18-60 years age group and ₹10 crore each for every assembly segment to facilitate setting up of startup units.

World's tallest Shiva statue at Nathdwara

If you travel on the Udaipur-Rajsamand highway, you will see a tall Lord Shiva on the horizon. The world's tallest Shiva statue – the Statue of Belief – was erected at Nathdwara on October 29. The statue is so huge that the hall built under it can house 1,000 people. It was inaugurated by spiritual leader Murari Bapu. The Statue of Belief or Vishwas Swaroopam took 10 years to build with over 50,000 people's hard work behind it. One can catch an expansive bird's eye view of Nathdwara town from the top of the statue, which has been constructed on a 51-bigha piece of land. The statue can be seen from 20km away.

Modi's praise for Gehlot triggers row

Prime Minister Narendra Modi's praise for Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot at a rally seems to have resurrected the Gehlot-Pilot tussle. Former deputy CM Sachin Pilot found it strange and he went to the extent of comparing Gehlot with Ghulam Nabi Azad, who too was praised by the PM, and later left the Congress. Observers feel that Pilot has shown haste in attacking Gehlot just like he led Congress into an intra-party revolt two years ago. With Gehlot likely to meet party chief Mallikarjun Kharge soon, the tussle is once again taking centre stage. Besides, AAP state in-charge Vinay Mishra said that Gehlot will be the next Amarinder Singh.

Job cards for beggars under new scheme

The Gehlot government is all set to set in motion another novel scheme with the introduction of job cards for beggars. All district collectors have been instructed to make the state 'free of begging' by January 26, 2023, and have been asked to rehabilitate all beggars in three months. The Department of Social Justice and Empowerment will also initiate skilling of beggars by engaging them in food creation under the Indira Rasoi Yojana and other schemes. They will be shifted to night shelters as well as rehabilitation centres. Of course, it's a different matter that the government wages for labour may be far less than what beggars earn at traffic signals in most cities.

HC admits plea against dist court's refusal for 'Shivling' carbon dating

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

THE Allahabad High Court on Friday sought the response of the Archaeological Survey of India on whether it is possible to conduct a scientific investigation of the purported Shivling found in the Gyanvapi mosque complex. Admitting a plea against the Varanasi district court's order rejecting the demand of carbon dating of the purported Shivling, the HC also issued issuing notices to Anjuman Intezamia Masajid – the management committee of Gyanvapi mosque, the district authorities and others in the matter.

The petition, filed by one of the Hindu plaintiffs Laxmi Devi, as part of the litigation over the worship rights of Shrinagar Gauri on the mosque premises, also sought a ground-penetrating radar (GPR) survey of the area concerned.

Justice JJ Munir listed the matter for further hearing on November 21.

The dispute began when Hindu devotees approached a Varanasi court seeking the right to worship at the mosque, claiming that it was a Hindu temple and still houses Hindu deities.

The plea moved by the petitioner in the lower court had sought appointment of ASI experts to find out the age and nature of the purported Shivling during a survey conducted by a court-appointed advocate commission.

The Varanasi district judge on October 14 dismissed the application, saying that any scientific survey would be a violation of the order of the Supreme Court which had directed that the concerned area be secured. Varanasi district court judge Dr AK Vishvesha had rejected the petition seeking scientific investigation, saying that the exercise could damage the structure.

The district court's order was challenged before the high court on the ground that it wrongly presumed that carbon dating or use of GPR would harm the structure.

In Guj, exit drama begins for 3 parties

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA

HOURS after the announcement of elections in Gujarat, senior leaders belonging to three main parties of Gujarat resigned one after another, enlivening the election scenario.

The resignations started with state AAP general secretary Indranil Rajguru on Friday. He returned to the Congress hours after AAP convenor Arvind Kejriwal named Isudan Gadhvi as the party's presumptive chief minister. Rajguru, a Rajkot-based businessman, had previously contested and won assembly elections.

On Saturday, Rajguru alleged that AAP was working as the BJP's 'B-team.' "AAP candidates are decided by the BJP head office. Crores of rupees are being transferred by charter planes to meet election expenses. The money came from Punjab by a plane right in front of my eyes. Funds received by AAP should be investigated. Money is being ferried by chartered planes. The money came in big bags. Kejriwal and Bhagwant Mann carry money in their charter planes," alleged Rajguru.

In another significant loyalty switch, senior BJP leader and former health minister Jay Narayan Vyas resigned from the primary membership of the party on Friday.

Vyas said he was tired of remaining in the role of a complainant in the BJP. He said he would be contesting the Assembly elections. "I will decide which party to choose after consulting my supporters," Vyas said.

Vyas, who represented Patan district's Sidhpur constituency in the Assembly, alleged that "certain people controlled" the BJP's district unit.

Things came to a head on October 29 when Vyas met Rajasthan Chief Minister and senior Congress observer in charge of Gujarat, Ashok Gehlot in Ahmedabad.

Vyas was a minister in the then Modi government from 2007 to 2012. Earlier too he had expressed his displeasure with the BJP. In June last year, when he was recuperating after heart surgery, he posted on social media saying he got a call from the BJP headquarters to attend a meeting. "I am in a hospital with a bypass surgery… the entire world knows except the Kamalam (the party HQ) kid! The party has definitely changed!!" he wrote.

Congress too had its share of resignations. AICC secretary and senior leader Himanshu Vyas resigned from the party and joined BJP. "The Congress central leadership has failed to communicate with party workers and leaders," he said.

Centre trying to impose Hindi in writing MPLADS projects: RS MP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

CLOSE on the heels of the parliamentary committee led by Union Home Minister Amit Shah recommending Hindi as a medium of instruction in technical and non-technical institutions, the government appears to be pushing for the same in other areas too. Rajya Sabha MP John Brittas has allged this in a letter written to Union Minister of State for Statistics and Program Implementation, Planning, and Corporate Affairs, Rao Inderjit Singh.

The new draft guidelines issued for the Members of Parliament Local Area Development Scheme (MPLADS) said that a plaque should be permanently erected at the site of new projects and the details should be inscribed in the 'Hindi language too. It was the first time that such conditions were included in the revised guideline, which was released on October 25. Brittas, also said that the enforced directive to give details in Hindi in non-Hindi-speaking states can only be considered an infringement of federal principles.

Brittas said in the letter said that the selection of languages may be left to the wisdom of the Parliamentarians. "Para 3.23 of the new draft guidelines surreptitiously tries to introduce a new stipulation of erecting a plaque at MPLADS project sites inscribing the details of work in the Hindi language as well. No such condition was there in the existing guidelines," said Brittas. The details to be given in the plaques in Hindi include 'the cost of the project, the commencement, completion, and inauguration dates, and the name of the MP concerned.

Flagging a host of issues in the revised draft guidelines, the CPI(M) leader from Kerala said that there is an attempt to curtail the right of the MPS to utilise their funds. He points out that according to the new draft guidelines, the funds for projects will be with the Central Nodal Agency (CNA) account instead of the district authority of the nodal district of the concerned MP.

Brittas also pointed out that new guidelines changed the limit of funds an MP can recommend in a financial year for the works involving trusts and co-operative societies from ₹1 crore to ₹50 lakh.

The disbursement of fresh funds, according to new guidelines, will be based on the utilisation certificates. Currently, funds are disbursed based on covering at least 80 per cent of the expenditure of the previous funds, which is ₹2.50 crores..

He also demanded that the government should obtain concurrence from the stakeholders, including the Rajya Sabha chairman, Lok Sabha Speaker, among others.

CBI questions TMC neta over ₹1 crore lottery

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

TMC leader Anubrata Mondal was on Saturday quizzed by the CBI at Asansol jail, where he is lodged, over the issue of winning ₹1 crore in lottery.

The CBI suspects that Mondal may have bought the ticket from its original owner to convert the black money collected through cattle smuggling.

The CBI raided Rahul Lottery Agency in Bolpur on Friday and summoned the owner, Sheikh Ainul. Later, lottery seller Sheikh Munna from whom the prize-winning ticket was sold, was questioned.

"Munna said he had not sold any ticket to Mondal," said an officer. "Once we know who bought the ticket, we will probe the link between Mondal and the ticket owner. In many cases, those having black money buy winning lottery tickets by paying more than the prize sum to convert unaccounted money."

Uma Bharti to renounce personal ties as she marks 30 yrs of sanyas

ANURAAG SINGH @ Bhopal

FORMER Madhya Pradesh chief minister Uma Bharti will renounce all personal and familial ties from November 17, which marks the completion of three decades of her sanyas. The saffron-clad former Union minister, who was one of the prominent leaders of BJP's Ram temple movement, on Friday posted a series of 17 tweets to make announcements about her reaching the milestone.

Bharti, however, did not mention anything about quitting politics, and mentioned in one of the tweets that she isn't detaching herself from the ideology of her party (BJP) and will keep serving the nation.

Known as Didi in the ruling BJP circles, the firebrand politician wrote, "November 17, 2022 will mark 30 years of my sanyas, which I took at Amarkantak on the same day in 1992. The Jain saint Vidyasagar Maharaj (my current guru) asked me on March 17, 2022 to turn into Didi Maa for the world. His wishes will be fulfilled on November 17."

Bharti added that in line with the Jain seer's wishes, she was renouncing all family and personal bonds.

"I free my kin from all bondings with me and will detach myself from them on November 17. Since then I'll be Didi Maa for entire world family (sic)," Bharti tweeted.

Her closest family members include her brother's family, including her nephew Rahul Singh Lodhi, who is the sitting BJP MLA from Khargapur seat in Tikamgarh district of MP.

The 63-year-old leader, who had guided the party to a historic win in MP in 2003 polls after 10 years of Congress government, did not contest the 2019 Lok Sabha polls, citing health reasons.

She has been waging a drive for total alcohol ban in MP, often causing embarrassment to her own party's government led by Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan, who has been advocating public campaigns against alcohol and drug abuse, instead of total liquor ban.

Reacting to Bharti's tweets, state Congress spokesperson Narendra Saluja reminded her about her pledge to tour the state from November 7 to January 14, 2023, and stay in tents for campaigning against liquor. "How shall your new schedule be interpreted, have you taken u-turn on your crusade for liquor free MP or struck a compromise with the government on the issue," he tweeted.

IMRAN REFUSES TO WITHDRAW ARMY OFFICER'S NAME FROM FIR

ISLAMABAD

A deadlock persists over filing an FIR in connection with an attack on Imran Khan after the former prime minister refused to withdraw the name of a senior Pakistan Army officer from the complaint, which also carries the names of the PM and the Interior Minister.

He also said that an FIR was not being registered as some people were afraid of (some names). Punjab Chief Minister Chaudhry Pervez Elahi is caught between "the devil and the deep blue sea" as Imran, who essentially calls the shots for the ruling coalition in Punjab, continues to insist on naming the Army officer in the FIR, the Dawn newspaper reported.

The matter was also taken up by the Punjab Cabinet during its meeting on Friday, which was attended by police chief Faisal Shahkar as well as other senior government officials and the provincial law minister. An official privy to the development told the newspaper that the meeting discussed the serious issues pertaining to all the legal aspects of the registration of a case.

He said the meeting also discussed that a further delay in the registration of a case could spoil all efforts to secure evidence and punish the suspects involved in the armed attack on Imran's container truck in Wazirabad.Sharing the political dimensions of the issue, the source said Elahi was against the "logic" of naming the senior army officer in the case. Elahi and PTI leaders held many meetings on the issue where the former attempted to convince them to drop the name of the Army officer, the source added. PTI

N Korea fires more ballistic missiles, US sends bombers

Duelling display of military might underscores rising tensions: Experts

SEOUL

NORTH Korea fired four ballistic missiles on Saturday, the South Korean military said, the latest in Pyongyang's testing blitz this week as Washington and Seoul concluded their biggest-ever air force drills.

The flurry of North Korean launches included an intercontinental ballistic missile and one that landed near the South's territorial waters. South Korean President Yoon Suk-yeol said it was "effectively a territorial invasion".

The launches came as hundreds of US and South Korean warplanes — including B-1B heavy bombers — participated in the Vigilant Storm exercise, which Pyongyang described as "aggressive and provocative".

"The South Korean military detected four short-range ballistic missiles launched by North Korea from Tongrim, North Pyongan Province, to the West Sea at around 11.32 a.m. to 11.59 a.m. today," South Korea's Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) said in a statement on Saturday, using another name for the Yellow Sea. Their "flight distance was detected at about 130 km, an altitude of about 20 km, and a speed of about Mach 5", they added. Mach 5 is equivalent to five times the speed of sound.

The United States and South Korea have warned that these launches could culminate in a nuclear test by North Korea, and extended their air force drills to Saturday in response.

Vigilant Storm was originally scheduled to run from Monday to Friday.

Pyongyang ramped up missile launches in response to the drills.

Such exercises have long provoked strong reactions from North Korea, which sees them as rehearsals for an invasion.

Vigilant Storm concluded on Saturday, with the US Air Force deploying two B-1B long-range heavy bombers on the final day in a ramped-up show of force.

This was the first time B-1Bs have flown to the Korean peninsula since December 2017.

The South Korean JCS said it demonstrated the "capability and readiness to firmly respond to any provocations from North Korea".

Pyongyang has especially condemned past deployments of US strategic weapons such as B-1Bs and aircraft carrier strike groups in times of high tension. While the supersonic B-1B "Lancer" aircraft no longer carries nuclear weapons, it is described by the US Air Force as "the backbone of America's long-range bomber force".

The USAF lists the Lancer's weapons payload as 34 tonnes, which can include cruise missiles and laser-guided bombs.

The B-1B's range can be extended by in-air refuelling, giving it the ability to strike anywhere in the world.

Ahn Chan-il, a North Korean studies scholar, said that given the B-1B's status as a strategic US asset, its deployment will be seen as a "significant threat" by North Korea. AFP

Bardella to replace Le Pen as leader of French far-right

PARIS

JORDAN Bardella was elected on Saturday to replace Marine Le Pen as president of France's leading far-right party, a symbolic changing of the guard that comes at a crucial time for the resurgent National Rally.

Bardella, an ambitious 27-year-old and outspoken member of the European Parliament, won an internal party vote with 85% support, according to results. He becomes the first person to lead the anti-immigration party who doesn't have the Le Pen name since it was founded a half-century ago.

The National Rally is seeking to capitalise on a breakthrough showing in legislative elections this year and growing support for far-right parties elsewhere. It's also facing broad public anger over a racist comment this week by a National Rally member in parliament that cast doubt on years of efforts to soften the party's image. AP

77% Employees think work-related stress can induce anxiety, depression, according to HR solutions provider Genius Consultants' report

Layoffs: When technology industry turns heartless

If history is any precedent, gloom & doom of sackings ends as summarily as they begin

SUNITHA NATTI

IT'S that bad quarter of an hour, when the tech industry turns heartless. Leading global companies from Amazon to Google to Apple have either announced widespread layoffs or hiring freezes. The latest to join the list is social media gaint Twitter, which packed home thousands of employees, including in India.

If history is any precedent, the gloom and doom surrounding the techie sackings must end as summarily as they begin. And in no time, the happy hour hiring bout gets restored. But whether 2023 will be kind enough remains unclear and if the prevailing economic turmoil persists, it could intimidate companies to continue making tough staffing choices.

Foremost of all, fears of an imminent recession are hitting global tech companies hard. Compounding their woes are the just-concluded disappointing earnings season, falling stock prices and ad revenue. As bleak demand outlook feeds fears of impending cuts in IT budgets, the prospects for Indian IT appear equally tight.

In further bad news, the Bank of England last week confirmed that the UK could see one of the worst recessions in a century. If its fears turn true, layoffs in the world's leading financial hub are inevitable. This will cause double-trouble for Indian firms and employees as financial sector is one of the top clients of the sector.

Though the Indian IT sector spared itself of mass layoffs as seen in the West, hiring fell among companies, weighed down by margin pressures and falling demand. Not only the attrition rates have been high with most companies recording 23-27% manpower exits during the first half of FY23, but also there have been reports of companies freezing or cutting staff bonuses, worrying about falling IT budgets in the US and Europe. For instance, both Infosys and Wipro have reportedly reduced the variable pay portion of employee compensations for the current fiscal.

Further ramming home the point that bad things often come in pairs, the Indian Startup industry too is showing signs of strain. As per Inc42's layoff tracker, a bunch of startups, including unicorns like BYJU'S, Cars24, Ola, LEAD, Meesho, MPL, Trell, Unacademy and Vedantu have collectively laid off 15,000 and counting. It further noted that more trouble could be in store going by the dismal trail of startup funding. Having raised $4.6 billion in January, Indian startups couldn't even cross a billion as on September.

Any hit to the IT sector could prove fatal for the economy, as it's no longer a sunrise sector. Far from it, it's evolved into a mega industry and is now the country's biggest private sector employer, accounting for 12 million indirect jobs and 5 million direct jobs.

Notably, FY22 packed a punch adding 4.5 lakh -- the highest annual addition ever -- as companies stepped up hiring to meet the rising demand, according to trade body Nasscom.

As Union Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad recently noted, the sector generated 8.73 lakh jobs in the last five years. Such mass job creation was left to the public sector, including railways and banks until at least the last decade.

The booming IT industry changed that course and now accounts for about 12% of the total country's workforce, even overtaking healthcare sector, which accounts for about 10%.

The economic uncertainty-fuelled global layoffs and consequent impact on domestic business comes at a time when the sector stands at another inflection point to overtake manufacturing sector, which is currently has the largest percentage of workers at about 38.5%, followed by education sector at 21.7%. This acheivement is critical for an economy that's unable to change the sectoral mix of job creation despite undergoing changes in the structure of its national output.

For instance, the industry and services sectors, which constitutes more than 80% of the gross value added in the country, provides employment to only 54.4% of the workforce. On the other hand, agriculture, which accounts for about 18%, retains 45.6% workforce. This divergence in sectoral share in income and employment is manifested in the rising gap in per worker income in the agriculture and non-agriculture sectors, according to Niti Aayog's recent discussion paper on workforce changes and employment.

JOB LOSS

HIRING PAUSE

- Weak earnings last quarter, coupled with recession fears have prompted e-commerce giant Amazon to freeze hiring until further notice
- Apple too stopped fresh employee additions, just like its tech peers including Facebook and Google that have frozen hiring
- Some believe layoffs in the West opens up scope for further hiring in India, but a lot will depend on how 2023 fares for global businesses
- As per layoffs.fyi, since April 2022, 80,089 start-up employees have lost their jobs, across 624 companies globally
- India, reportedly, accounts for 10.4% of these start-up layoffs

MAHARASHTRA LOSES PROJECTS AND ITS PRIDE TO GUJARAT

THE row in Maharashtra over spiriting away employment-generating projects to Gujarat and elsewhere is getting louder by the day. One can't help feeling the BJP high command has scored a self-goal. There will be short-term benefits vis-a-vis the coming Gujarat elections, but Maratha 'national' pride seems to quite bruised over the brouhaha. It might prove costly in the long run for the BJP.

In the last few weeks and months, sample what has happened:

-- The mining giant Vedanta and Taiwan's world No.1 chip manufacturing company, Foxconn sealed an agreement mid-September to set up a semi-conductor plant in Gujarat. The earlier coalition Shiv Sena government had been pursuing talks with the alliance to set up base in Maharashtra's Talegaon area, close to Pune, but a last-minute nudge from the Centre, pushed the ₹1.54 lakh project out of Maharashtra.

-- Weeks later, on October 30, Prime Minister Narendra Modi laid the foundation stone for the ₹22,000 crore Tata Airbus C-295 aircraft manufacturing facility in Vadodara, Gujarat. This was after the Tata Airbus team had almost finalised a deal with the previous Maharashtra government for the project to come up in an industrial belt, near Nagpur.

-- And finally: days after the loss of the Tata-Airbus project to Gujarat came the news on October 31 that Safran, the French manufacturer of commercial aircraft engines, had decided to shift its project from Nagpur to Hyderabad.

The Opposition has done its math and is hurling it at the BJP. Voices like Aditya Thackeray estimate Maharashtra's loss at about ₹2 lakh crore in investment and perhaps an opportunity loss of 1.5 lakh direct jobs. BJP spokespersons on the other had say there has been no arm-twisting, and the choice of location has been a commercial decision of the investors.

There has obviously been some soul-searching in the BJP. It had also to save its local leadership of Devendra Fadnavis and others. Otherwise why should the Prime Minister, addressing a 'Rozgar Mela' in Maharashtra on Thursday, announced that the Centre had approved 225 projects for Maharashtra cumulatively valued at over ₹2 lakh crore?

Bruised history

There is substantial history behind the bruised Maharashtrian pride. Before Maharashtra and Gujarat was carved out from the erstwhile British Raj's bilingual 'Bombay Province' in 1960, an attempt was made by the elite 'Bombay Club', run by a clutch of rich Gujarati and Parsi industrialists, to keep the city as a union territory and out of the state reorganization process.

NEWSCOPE
GURBIR SINGH

While the 'Bombay' government led by Morarji Desai supported the 'Save Bombay' group, a broad alliance of left parties – the Communists led by S A Dange, the Socialists represented by S.M. Joshi and Senapati Bapat, a Congress freedom fighter, led the 'Samyukta Maharashtra' movement demanding the merger of 'Bombay' with Maharashtra.

Their case was that a majority of its population was Marathi-speaking and the city's infrastructure and industry was built by the Marathi working class.

The Morarji Desai government was seen as a representative of crafty Gujarati and Parsi capitalists who wanted to keep the spoils of 'Bombay' and condemn the rest of Maharashtra to a state of poverty. The State Reorganization Committee finally accepted the demands and Maharashtra was born with Mumbai as its capital; but not before 106 protestors had perished to police bullets.

It is this old narrative of discrimination at the hands of crafty Gujarati businessmen that is again playing out in the Marathi psyche. The continued backwardness of Maharashtra's coastal belt sans industrial development, and the slow erosion of Maharashtra as an industrial state from No.1 to No.4 status has revived the spectre of a 'conspiracy' to downgrade the state.

Rupture of federalism

There are some natural advantages that Maharashtra has over other states. There is an old 'industrial' culture in the Mumbai-Pune urban swathe. Mumbai was where the British set up dozens of cotton mills to support the First World War effort. Over the years, the region has the advantage of an advanced talent pool; and the relatively high income levels offers a lucrative market for commodities and services. So why did so many projects sacrifice these advantages and move out?

The deliberate erosion of Mumbai as a financial center has also not gone unnoticed. The decision of moving the International Financial Services Centre (IFSC) to Gujarat's GIFT City from Mumbai's Bandra-Kurla Complex (BKC) in 2020 is one such example.

At a broader level, arm-twisting investors to rejig their choice of location not based on business considerations can have a serious implications on those looking to invest in India. Besides, every state and region offers certain advantages which the Center should not interfere with just because it has the power to issue licenses. We are talking about 'federalism' being part of the basic fabric of the Constitution.

A few projects lost to Gujarat will not substantially alter growth prospects of Maharashtra. But in the game of optics, Gujarat's gain is now seen as Maharashtra's loss deliberately inflicted by a Machiavellian political class. Somewhere in the future, there could be payback too.

VIL pitches for tariff hike in telecom industry

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

VODAFONE IDEA, India's third-largest telecom operator, has pitched for an increase in tariff to support continued investments.

The company said telecom tariffs in India continued to remain at unsustainable level and the industry needs tariff correction.

"It is important to note that despite the price intervention made in the last one year, tariffs in India continue to remain at unsustainable levels. And we believe that industry needs further tariff correction to support the continued investments, going forward," said Vodafone Idea CEO Akshaya Moondra during the company's analyst call on Q2FY23 earnings on Friday.

He further said, in the last one year, the company has taken several tariff interventions including entry-level plans. It continued to focus on getting more customers on 4G networks by slashing its unlimited plans, even without a tariff increase.

"We have seen ARPU growth for five consecutive quarters now," said Moondra.

Boxers Minakshi, Preeti assure medals

Indian pugilists Minakshi and Preeti registered contrasting wins to secure semifinal berths and assure themselves of medals in their maiden appearance at the Asian Boxing Championships in Amman, Jordan. While Minakshi (52kg) defeated Philippines' Irish Magno 4-1, Preeti (57kg) beat Turdibekova Sitora of Uzbekistan 5-0.

MISSING ELEMENT IN CAPTAIN'S PLANET

Coming into India's high-stake final group contest against Zimbabwe at the ongoing T20 World Cup, Rohit's lack of firepower at the top a cause for concern

GOMESH S @ Chennai

SINCE the new team management took over, Rohit Sharma's role in this Indian team's batting order seemed pretty clear. Take on the attack to the bowlers early on in the powerplay and set the tone for the rest of the batters in the line-up. Through the course of 2022, he has done a pretty good job of it. The powerplay strike rate of 142.9 in the lead up to the T20 World Cup is testament to that.

Among the Indian batters who have opened more than once this year, only Suryakumar Yadav (173.58), Rishabh Pant (163.63) and Sanju Samson (140.74) have a better SR in the first six overs. It seemed like a plan put in motion and was working out well for India as the batting-order followed Rohit's pursuit of aggression, especially while batting first.

However, this World Cup has been different. Although India are well placed to progress to the semifinals, they haven't really taken on the tournament by storm. But more importantly, their openers have struggled to set the platform for the others. In the four matches so far, only Virat Kohli and Suryakumar Yadav have performed consistently. Rohit and KL Rahul have a half-century each to show, but their overall performance does not augur well. Rohit averages 18.50 at a SR of 108.82 and Rahul, 18.00 with a SR of 109.09. Due credit, Rahul has just found his form against Bangladesh, but the way Rohit has batted so far could be a cause for worry as they inch towards the knockouts as his scores so far read: 4 (7), 53 (39), 15 (14) and 2 (8).

Make no mistake, the conditions haven't been easier for any batting unit, especially early on in the powerplay. With the moisture in the air and the pitches assisting the sideways movement, the pacers have made the most of it. Not many batters have been able to get going from ball one and keep the momentum through the innings. For India, Suryakumar has been the sole exception. Kohli, on the other hand, has been doing what he does best. He holds one end up, anchors the innings before going big in the last few overs.

TODAY'S MATCHES

Adelaide: ● South Africa vs Netherlands 5.30 AM ● Bangladesh vs Pakistan 9.30 AM Melbourne: ● India vs Zimbabwe 1.30 PM

Live on Star Sports Network

For Rohit, more than the number of runs, it's how he looked in the middle that might be a concern for India. In all three innings where he could not see himself in and convert the start, he has looked tentative as to whether to go on a full-blooded attack or take his time and then build on it. He has been dropped twice and yet hasn't been able to use the lifelines. While the pull shot is easily one of the most productive shots for him, it has led to his downfall in this World Cup as well.

As India are getting ready to take on Zimbabwe in their last league game at the Melbourne Cricket Ground, all eyes will be on their skipper. For them, the equation is simple. Win and go through to the semifinals, where they will be facing England in Adelaide on Thursday. They will know the results of the previous matches of their group on Sunday and what they need to progress.

But it is not going to be easy. Zimbabwe have tested every team they have come up against. They have defeated Pakistan, almost pulled out a victory against Bangladesh. And they will come out all guns blazing against India as well. Blessing Muzarabani has been breathing fire through the World Cup and the lanky pacer will pose a serious threat, especially to Rohit at the top. After all, all of his five wickets in the Super 12s have been top-order batters. "This is a great opportunity to bowl against some of the best guys in the world, so there's no reason why guys would not want to actually get out there and produce the goods," Zimbabwe skipper Craig Ervine said on Saturday.

The last time India played a World Cup quarterfinal match in Australia, Rohit stepped up and took India home with a century. India will be playing a virtual quarterfinal on Sunday and they will be looking at their skipper to put on a show and help them get to the semifinals. For India to pick up momentum and have a good chance at getting their hands on the silverware, they will need Rohit at his best in the next few days.

AUSSIE SHOCKER

Australia's Twenty20 World Cup defence was over on Saturday after old rivals England pipped the hosts to a place in the semi-finals. The departing champions won three, lost one and had one game washed out as they finished third behind New Zealand and England in a tight Group 1. Here's a look...

OPENING BLUNDER

Australia never really recovered from being thrashed by 89 runs by New Zealand in their opening match. It was the worst start possible. The hosts' bowlers took a pasting as Devon Conway's unbeaten 92 powered the Black Caps to 200-3 and avenged their loss to their neighbours in last year's final.

FINCH FLOUNDERS

Skipper Aaron Finch came into the tournament under pressure because of his poor form with the bat. He scored 13 in the first match and then a laboured unbeaten 31 in the next against Sri Lanka that nearly cost the team a win, but for a Marcus Stoinis blitz. Finch later called his 41-ball struggle in Perth a "one-off" and soon struck form in his team's win over Ireland with an attacking 63, but the knock arrived late.

LOSING GAMBLES

If keeping Glenn Maxwell floating between five and six was not enough, Australia's decision-making shocked even the opposition in Adelaide by not picking pace bowler Mitchell Starc in the XI. They needed to win against Afghanistan by a huge margin for a shot at the semis and Starc's replacement Kane Richardson leaked 48 runs from his four overs.

WARNER FLOPS: David Warner was Australia's leading batsman with 289 runs in their maiden T20 World Cup triumph last year in the United Arab Emirates, but he inexplicably failed to fire on home conditions. His scores of 5, 11, 3 and 25 reflected on the team's totals with the highest being 179 against rank-outsiders Ireland.

Stokes secures semis spot for England

AGENCIES @ Sydney

ENGLAND advanced to the semifinals of the T20 World Cup and eliminated host Australia on net run-rate after its last over four-wicket win over Sri Lanka on Saturday.

New Zealand, England and Australia all finished with seven points from five matches in Group 1 but the Kiwis topped the group with a healthy net run-rate of 2.113. Australia paid the price for a heavy loss to New Zealand in the opening game and finished with at a net run-rate of -0.173. England had a net run-rate of 0.473.

Ben Stokes kept his composure and made an unbeaten 42 off 36 balls as England reached 144/6 in 19.4 overs after Sri Lanka won the toss and elected to bat. Sri Lanka could not have advanced even if they had beaten England but the islanders squandered a blistering start of 52/1 in five overs before ending up at a disappointing 141/8.

Brief scores: Sri Lanka 141/8 in 20 ovs (Nissanka 67; Wood 3/26) lost to England 144/6 in 19.4 ovs (Hales 47, Stokes 42).

"We knew we had to find a way to win the game coming here today, so thankfully we did that," England skipper Jos Buttler said. England will face the Group 2 winner in the semifinals at Adelaide next Thursday. New Zealand will play the Group 2 runner-up at the Sydney Cricket Ground on Wednesday. "We go there (Adelaide) looking forward to whoever we play at what is one of the best stadiums in the world," Buttler said.

Opening batter Pathum Nissanka braved pain on his twisted ankle and made 67 before England hit back through its spinners. Adil Rashid was 1/16 and fast bowler Mark Wood picked up 3/26 after being smacked for two sixes by Nissanka in his first over. England sank Sri Lanka in the death overs when Nissanka holed out to long on in the 16th over and then Wood claimed three wickets in his return spell, allowing the islanders to score only 25 in the last five overs.

Sabalenka enters WTA Finals semis

AFP @ Fort Worth (United States)

ARYNA Sabalenka beat Jessica Pegula 6-3, 7-5 on Friday and advanced to the semifinals of the WTA Finals as second-ranked Tunisian Ons Jabeur was eliminated.

Greece's Maria Sakkari, ranked fifth, beat Jabeur 6-2, 6-3 on Friday night to finish unbeaten in round-robin play.

Her victory assured Sabalenka of second place in the Nancy Richey Group and a berth in the knockout stages.

Seventh-ranked Sabalenka had done her part with the victory over third-ranked Pegula.

With so much on the line, Sabalenka was dialed in from the start. "I'm just happy that I was really focussed from the beginning to the end and I was able to finish this match in two sets," she said.

Sabalenka, who improved to 4-1 against Pegula, took charge early and took full advantage of four first-set double faults from Pegula. The second set was a more tightly contested affair, Pegula quickly erasing an early break as Sabalenka suddenly found herself struggling on serve.

Despite seven double faults in the second set, Sabalenka managed to keep it close and broke for a 5-3 lead to pile the pressure back on Pegula.

Pegula, who secured her spot in the elite season-ending event with her triumph at Guadalajara in October, responded with a service break of her own and leveled the set at 5-5, Sabalenka digging deep to win the last two games and polish it off in two sets. "It's tough but that's tennis," Pegula said. "You have one good week, and then you're right back at it the next. There's a lot of really high highs and low lows.

"You end the year well and then I come here, lose all my matches," added Pegula, who noted the number of her defeats this week in Fort Worth was the same as she'd endured in "like three months."

Jabeur, a finalist at Wimbledon and the US Open this year, could have still sneaked into the semis with a straight-sets win over Sakkari. But she didn't get a look in as a "fearless" Sakkari wrapped up a victory in just 69 minutes.

As group winner, Sakkari guaranteed she won't have to take on number one ranked Iga Swiatek in the semifinals.

Mumbai win maiden Syed Mushtaq crown

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

THE only silverware that has been missing in Mumbai's trophy cabinet arrived on Saturday as the domestic giants defeated Himachal Pradesh in the final to clinch the Syed Mushtaq Ali T20 title at the Eden Gardens. Playing their first-ever final in the format, Mumbai were well on course to overhaul Himacha's target of 144, but suffered a late wobble before Sarfaraz Khan and Tanush Kotian took them home.

For Himachal, who are the defending Vijay Hazare Trophy champions, this was a heartbreaking defeat. But one that shows, they are side that are continuing to improve across the format. Coming into the final, despite having a star-studded side, that Mumbai were not even considered the favourites said a story or two. They have gone past the group stage only once in the tournament and that was in the 2011/12 season.

But on Saturday, Mumbai brought their A game. First their bowling did a commendable job to restrict Himachal to 143/8 with medium-pacer Mohit Avasthi and off-spinner Tanush Kotian taking three wickets each. And chasing a moderate target, although Himachal didn't make the journey easy, Mumbai stayed ahead largely thanks to Shreyas Iyer (34) before Sarfaraz delivered their first title of the season with an unbeaten 36.

Brief scores: Himachal Pradesh 143/8 in 20 ovs (Ekant Sen 37, Tanish 3/15, Mohit 3/31) lost to Mumbai 146/7 in 19.3 ovs (Sarfaraz 36 n.o, Vaibhav 3/27).

SUSTAINABLE DRIVE

Qatar: No 'white elephant' legacy for World Cup stadiums

JEROME PUGMIRE

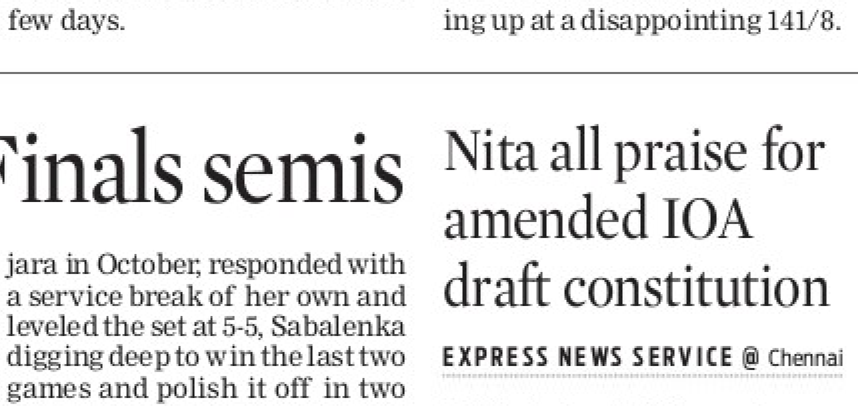
ONE of the World Cup stadiums in Qatar is named after the Persian Gulf country's international dialing code — 974 — and another is called "Education City." They're unusual names that hardly sound like they have links to soccer, and after the tournament many no longer will.

Qatar built seven of its eight lavish World Cup stadiums and heavily renovated another. The smallest World Cup host nation since Switzerland in 1954, Qatar has a population of 2.6 million, with only 360,000 Qatari citizens, and a limited domestic league. So it's questionable it needs so many large venues after the tournament, especially after the past three World Cups — in South Africa, Brazil and Russia — exposed several stadiums without long-term use.

At least Stadium 974 in Ras Abu Aboud won't become a white elephant, since it will disappear. The 40,000-arena located port-side just east of Doha was made from recycled shipping containers — 974 of them. The demountable, energy-efficient stadium will make way for a waterfront business development.

But many other stadiums won't host any more soccer beyond this tournament and next summer's Asian Cup — for which Qatar won hosting rights after host China withdrew citing the COVID-19 pandemic.

Only two top-tier teams from the Qatar Stars League — Al Rayyan and Al Wakrah — will play in their glitzy World Cup stadiums.



Education City Stadium, which has 40,000 capacity, will be used by 8000 students across nine universities and eleven schools after the upcoming World Cup | AP

The majority of this World Cup's venues will have their capacity diminished from 40,000 to 20,000 post-tournament as part of a drive for sustainability. Education City is 13 kilometers (8 miles) from Doha. Half the seats will go and the venue will be used by 8,000 students across nine universities and eleven schools.

What happens to those extra 20,000 seats, then?

"(They) will be offered to countries who need sporting infrastructure," Ali Al Dosari, the stadium's director of installations, said in a press release. "This will allow the culture of soccer to be promoted and to a greater extent the love of sport throughout the world."

Qatar pledged to give 170,000 removed seats to developing countries. With its gold facade and 80,000 capacity, Qatar's gleaming Lusail Stadium hosts 10 matches, including the final. It's only 20 kilometers (12.2 miles) from Doha, but no club will call this gleaming vessel home. In keeping with sustainable development, its future lies as a community hub with housing units, shops, schools, cafes and medical clinics. The upper-tier will become outdoor terracing for new homes. Returning Haaland helps City go top

MANCHESTER: Erling Haaland came off the bench to score the winner in the dying minutes for Man City against Fulham in the Premier League on Saturday. City were down to 10 men after Joao Cancelo was shown the red card in the 26th minute. Cancelo was penalised for fouling Harry Wilson inside the penalty box. Just when it seemed like Fulham will earn an unlikely point, Haaland scored from the penalty spot to help City secure three points and go top. Kevin De Bruyne was fouled inside the box by Antonee Robinson. After 13 games, City are now a point ahead of second-placed Arsenal, who have a game in hand. The Gunners are set to face Chelsea on Sunday. Results: Leeds 4-3 Bournemouth; Man City 2-1 Fulham; Forest 2-2 Brentford; Wolves 2-3 Brighton.

RUSSIA, CHINA BLOCK PLANS FOR MARINE PROTECTION

MARINE LIFE

WELLINGTON: Russia and China have again blocked plans supported by the European Union, the United States and 23 other nations to protect three vast stretches of ocean around Antarctica from most fishing.

But conservationists said there were some positives from a two-week international meeting on the future of Antarctica's pristine waters that concluded in Australia late Friday. Those included an agreement on new protections for krill fishing and a commitment to meet in Chile next year to further discuss the proposal for the new marine protected areas, which combined would cover a swath of ocean larger than India. Many nations have become frustrated at the ability of Russia—and, to a lesser extent, China—to effectively veto proposals, as the rules of the group require it reach consensus before taking action.

The US, which has been trying to find common ground with China, laid the blame for this year's disagreements squarely on Russia, which the US said was undermining the group. "Russia's repeated rejection of the best available scientific information amounts to an abuse of its commitment to participate in consensus-based decision-making," the State Department said in a statement.

The Russian delegation did not immediately respond to a request for comment.

The Pew Bertarelli Ocean Legacy Project said it was pleased the group had managed to agree on some measures around krill fishing. The small, shrimp-like creatures are eaten by seabirds, penguins, seals and whales.

"While the krill conservation measure is a good first step, new evidence underscores that the best precautionary approach to Southern Ocean conservation couples ecosystem-based fishery management and marine protected areas," said Andrea Kavanagh, director of the Project's Antarctic and Southern Ocean work.

Finding consensus among the group called the Commission for the Conservation of Antarctic Marine Living Resources has always been hard but has been exacerbated by Russia's war in Ukraine—which is also a member of the group. The meeting began last week with a mass walkout when the Russian delegates started speaking.

Kostiantyn Demianenko, who led the Ukrainian delegation, said, "A state that kills the civilian population, ... and definitely violates the basic provisions of international law should definitely be limited in its right to participate in the activities of international organizations such as CCAMLR,"

China reels under zero-Covid policy

HEALTH

BEIJING: Chinese health officials gave no indication Saturday of any relaxation of Covid-19 restrictions, following several days of speculation that the government was considering changes to a "zero-Covid" approach that has stymied economic growth and disrupted daily life.

The officials said at a news conference that they would "unswervingly" stick to the policy, which seeks to stop cases from coming into the country and snuff out outbreaks as they are uncovered.

The announcement was not a surprise and doesn't preclude the possibility that discussions are taking place behind closed doors. But there has been no official confirmation of talks, and most analysts believe any change will be gradual with major easing unlikely until sometime next year.

The speculation rallied stock markets in China this week, with investors as well as the public latching onto any hints of possible change. The death of a 3-year-old boy in a quarantined residential compound fueled growing discontent with the anti-virus controls, which are increasingly out of step with the rest of the world.

Anyone entering China must quarantine at a designated hotel for seven to 10 days. People in the country line up several times a week to get a virus test at outdoor booths, to meet a requirement for a negative result within the last 72 hours to enter office buildings, shopping malls, restaurants, parks and other public places.

Tuo Jia, a National Health Commission official, acknowledged complaints in some cities about the zealous enforcement of the zero-Covid policy and said that local authorities need to balance epidemic prevention with economic development.

"We must conduct prevention and control resolutely, decisively, scientifically and accurately, and resolutely clean up and stop all forms of simplification, a one-size-fits-all approach and excessive local measures," she said. Scattered outbreaks across the country continue to prompt travel restrictions and lockdowns. China on Saturday reported identifying about 3,500 new cases.
